Please provide a relavant link to an OFFICIAL announcement

bull shi+ talked over, spun and re-hashed on 75 and 20 meters on a daily that your "announcement" above is thus right up there with the

Ah, but that is another problem. Activity on any particular group is directly proportional to how well know it is and how easy it is to access. The Yahoo group's lack of activity may simply be due to a lack of visibility.

Of course, the downside to popularity is that it attracts the "seedy" element as well as the good people. You have to draw the line. Do you want a semi-private group, who's existand reaches only a small grup of people, and where it is easier to regulate content? Or do you want an open door public forum, which has no problem with the quantity of participants, but you have to take the good along with the bad?

> it didn't put up with the nonsense here.

It has degenerated into the lowest common denominator. Not too much different from what can be heard over the CB channels in any given Metro area.

> you are part of it with the twisty posts and responses.

I have decided to limit my posts to subjects which deal with CB radio. Equipment, trivia, nostaligia etc. When someone makes an erroneous statement, I will set them straight. Twisty is an attention seeking sociopath. It is pointless to engage him any further, and I will do so no longer than to correct factual inaccuracies.

Stay below 28 MHz!

Do NOT do this or you will splatter all over. If the modulation seems weak, try a power mic.

> AM Power - VR13
> SSB Power - VR12

Using a watt meter tune for max, then back it off a bit. If you're going to use an amp, set AM for about 3 watts and SSB for no more than 10 watts for a clean signal.

As another poster said, it's probably a cold-solder joint on the back of the display board. If you're good at soldering PC boards, you could touch all the solder points up with a fine-tipped iron and probably fix it.

Wow,,,talk about old memories,,,those were the days of rockin' arenas and sellouts and kick azz music and.... after the Who crush in Cinci (80 or 81), the times were ushered by an entire new era of British limp wrist rock..apologies to Brain,,,there were many, many fine bands that came out of GB prior to then, but the days of the Yardbirds, Stones, Who, Animals, and the like were replaced with flamers such as Sting who took almost thirty years to realize he should leave men alone.

First of all, why in the world did you reply to my newsgroup posting and crosspoast in 3 other groups? what a flippin' Moron!

Next of all, The info is accurate. when the FCC releases it's next enforcement log to the ARRL, it will be released. unless Ol' Chicken head told Riley not to tell nobody. so, we might not see a offical notice, but if one wants confirmation contact W8NS, he's the dude the dropped the dime. Trust me, Chicken Head got what he deserved. and seeing the crap he pulled with yours truly, I'll MORE THAN happily testify in court, on W8NS's part, if need be. So, Don, If you're reading this, Come see your ol' buddy south of Detroit, if you need some back up in court. I was personally a witness to that drunk's antics on 3.865, night after night. and how he broke rules and acted like an Idiot for like 3 years. (I got my general in 2000)

FREE!!

For advanced techs and serious radio hobbyists, we're now offering a FREE copy of our previously published "CB EPROM DATA BOOK" by Martin Pickering. (EPROM = Erasable Programmable Read Only Memory.) We sold it for many years but it's now out of print. This little manual of 60 illustrated pages is an absolute GEM of CB technical knowledge you'll just never find anywhere else. And it's yours for FREE from our Web site.

This book reveals the secrets of advanced channel programming, and picks up where our "CB PLL DATA BOOK" (www.cbcintl.com/pllbook.htm) leaves off. You'll get a thorough background in how these amazing programmable chips can be used to modify many popular CB PLL circuits for expanded frequency coverage. Covers the basic programming techniques, and even includes real PC board artwork for making EPROM circuits. Sample artwork includes EPROM boards for the popular MB8719, PLL02A, ï¿½PD2824, and ï¿½PD858 PLL circuits.

www.cbcintl.com/docs/EpromBook.htm

Don't forget to check out all our other CB specialty books, plans, kits, & high-performance accessories at:

Why should I complain George? You just did. I kill filed them along with the three other screen nics you used today.

One of George's motives, by his own admission:

"why do I do it because I can, It is a good way to defeat filters as well and because it pisses you guys off."

He admits that he's a troll..........LOL!!!!

PLONK!! Again, proved your a troll by changing nics.

hi all

ok i know nothing at all about CB radio....but here is my situation

Im an australian guy, just taken a job in vietnam, ho chi minh city.
my girlfriend is in hong kong, my family in australia vietnam has ridiculously expensive IDD and ridiculously expensive broadband - so kinda rules out long phone calls and voice chats online.

so thinking about CB radio

what sort of equipment would i need to get this sort of range? what will it typically cost me to buy? how hard is it to rig up?

i know these are really dumb questions, but look forward to some answers that may be helpful.

Matt

As usual, Georgie-girl is simply incorrect. It's Georgie-Girl and DouGay who are the worst. And reading their posts > is < euthanasia!

Hey Georgie-girl: What happened to Comcast? Har!

Why? You have a great opportunity to experience a different culture that's both modern and ancient. Take advantage of your time and don't waste it on something so trivial as CB radio. Try the bun tom, go home, -then- get on the radio and tell everyone about it.

Hey Frank, go forget what alias you were trolling and cursing and flooding the group with again as you did below.... failure. It illustrates whata lying azz lid you are, full of malice, ignorance, piss and vinegar. Hey, but go on now and talk to yourself, prehaps curse some more, maybe tell us some more of your many lies you just can't seem to get away with these days..LOL...and stop pretending to be me, you make too many mistakes when you're posting out of anger and you end up being the ng fool as you so adeptly illustrated below. Now, back to your magnificent failures....

Frank, you are in no position to demand or ask anything of anyone in this group. You have been caught jerking off this ng for for your own pleasure and jollies too many times. You're a lowlife, lying, whining, troublemaker. Now, go back and talk to yourself, after all, you only get the attention you kick and scream for from yourself. Go play your identity game, failure. Watching you squirm as your failures come to light via your own incompetence is joy akin to the 4H fair.

Frank needs excused. He is a failure at all he does. He was driven

Your game has run ot Gilliland,,go pleasure yourself to the posts of rec,radio.cb and talk to yourself...LOL...we really warped your psyche and manhandled it over the last few years,,,,hahhaa..not only have you been forced underground to a paid subscription service to access this group (lmao,,talk about a sick-azzed compulsion...LOL), you are further reduced to supporting yourself via multiple identities,,,LOL,,,,gee Frank, watching your ego and confidence level at an all time super-low somehow makes the initiated exchanges that you always begin, worthwhile.

WMD FOUND IN SADDAM'S BEARD Bush: Whiskers No Longer a Threat to U.S. The search for weapons of mass destruction in Iraq came to an end today as U.S. military officials found chemical, biological and nuclear weapons hidden in the scraggly beard of former Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein. The Iraqi madman had instructed his weapons scientists to create the WMD in microscopic form so that he could carry them around on his person at all times, the officials said. U.S. General Ricardo Sanchez said that the discovery of WMD nestled in Saddam's unkempt facial hair closes the book on one of Operation Iraqi Freedom's most enduring mysteries. "Now we know why we never found the weapons of mass destruction," General Sanchez told reporters. "We never dreamed they were tiny enough to be hidden on someone's face." The general added that Saddam was capable of launching his deadly weapons cache merely by shaking his head. After he was captured, Saddam received a shave and a haircut from the Halliburton Company, who charged the former dictator the entire $750,000 he had in his possession. The deadly beard was then stored in an airtight container and transferred to a U.S. military laboratory in Wiesbaden, Germany for future study. At a press conference in Washington, President Bush praised the military for removing Saddam's lethal beard once and for all. "Thanks to the efforts of our coalition, Saddam Hussein's whiskers will no longer harbor the world's deadliest weapons," Mr. Bush said. Later in his press conference, the President revealed that U.S. forces found Saddam after receiving a tip from Tikrit that there was an ass in a hole in the ground.

I think he mighta been asking if CB can cover the distance to Hong Kong or Australia so he can chat with his family in which case CB is a definite no.

PS watch out for kids selling cokes.

I have for sale a nice Contex 500 RF Amplifier. This amp runs five 6LQ6 tubes. This is a one pushing four tube configuration 1x-6LQ6 & 4x-6LQ6s. It is metered and is housed in the original light green cabinet. I tested it on 10 meters and it put out almost 500 watts PEP. It is in excellent cosmetic and operational condition. Price is $225 plus shipping from 79602.
Thanks, Charlie Hugg

I would suggest getting your amateur radio license, where you can use some other bandwidth with less interference and use power when needed. That and there are some other tricks for that type of long distance communication.

I can't believe some of these yahoos on here, babbling there little NG jibberish. Frank what the hell is wrong with you, what is that crap you posted? Nobody cares about it and it seems it doesn't pertain to the question.

To bad your not in my neck of the woods I could convert that radio to a standard 4 or 5 Pin connector.

As for Mic Gain, it is used to increase the signal (Your Voice) to the radio. Just like a Car audio amp Gain, it is not a volume control. If it is truely a Gain circuit, cranking the gain will usally induce alot background noise or may feedback.

Wrong as usual, DouGay. CB, conditions permitting, should work just fine from Vietnam to Australia. And it's not illegal down under; they can legally answer DX calls, but not initiate them. Whether it's legal in Vietnam is another, totally different, question. No matter, since US "rules" don't apply.

In case you haven't noticed, the conflict ("war" can only be declared by Congress, and it wasn't) is over, so there's no longer any need to worry about kids selling cokes.

OK, DouGay: Open mouth, change feet!

You're a hoot, dimbulb!

You're also an acknowledged liar. And you claim to be a "legal CBer", while Dave Hall claims "all CBers are criminals".

Hmmm! You got to wonder!

But answer this: If you're a "legal CBer" and a commercial broadcast engineer, why can't you get an amateur license? Inquiring minds want to know.

Nice try, TwistyDave, but most everyone else has read those posts the way they were written, undistorted by your pathetic quoting skills; i.e, 'communication deficit'. Try again later after some gullible newbies join the group, and then you might get a response that will satisfy your need to feel superior.

Hey anus boy

1. I am not Doug you asswipe

2. Hanoi to Hong Kong is 1000 miles. Hanoi to Australia is 3000 miles.
The guy wants to chat with his family on a reliable daily basis not call BREAKER TAN FER THAR CQ DX HELLO AUDIOOOOO etc. you fool

3. Kids selling cokes can still cheat you out of a buck

Hey look, we have a new Newsgroup Moderator!

Thanks for the feedback, Channel-Master Donald, but I think I just keep on replying to posts the way I see fit, even if I happen to misunderstand the original post. Does that work for you? I hope so, because I certainly don't want to cause you any more personal grief.

Clyde, you are in no position to demand or ask anything of anyone in this group. You have been caught jerking off this ng for for your own pleasure and jollies too many times. You're a lowlife, lying, whining, troublemaker. Now, go back and talk to yourself, after all, you only get the attention you kick and scream for from yourself. Go play your identity game, failure. Watching you squirm as your failures come to light via your own incompetence is joy akin to the 4H fair.

LOL!

Tell me about it, I've been busy with salt and snow, and that doesn't come with a set shift either. Plus I've been sandblasting a tow behind salt spreader that I picked up for cheap, getting it ready for paint, in my -spare- time.

Coffee could be any hour over here.

At the moment, I am getting sent between 3 and 5 Megabytes of junk mail every day (possibly including viruses) to one of my mailboxes - Scan MailBox filters out every single one on the server.

Merry Christmas.

The same thing happened on the UK CB group, where someone used a nicname and an Amateur started whining about using an Amateur callsign which was not their's.
What they fail to realise is that Amateur callsigns have no meaning outside of Amateur radio - their sole use of that series of letters and numbers only relates to use on Amateur radio.
Also, they are not the only use of a series of letters and numbers. Not all such strings are Ham callsigns - specially on a CB newsgroup.

To send someone to Coventry means to ignore them - I don't know why Coventry was picked on for the term.

A few years back there was an advert on TV, I believe it was for milk. One boy referred to the other playing soccer for Acrington Stanley - to which the other replied, "Who are they".
"Exactly", came the reply.

The little known team, who are not in a main league are doing quite well in the FA cup - they just beat a division 2 team... lmfao. At least there was no streaker this time round.

Peter.

There still are a couple of Yahoo groups for CB, both in use... but they are not newsgroups. The difference is that the trolls and spammers are soon evicted, which cannot be done on the newsgroups.

The trolls do not overrun any CB group. Some groups are too quiet for them, but others just ignore them or tell them to shut up, and leave it at that. They still post the odd troll message to the UK group, but it gets even less response than the stupid "bush" type cross-posted trolls get. So, they come back here to feed... look at how long a troll thread keeps going here.

Peter.

Lovelace, Loveless.... I don't keep up on country music. So however the name is Hmm..nope, Frank, what you claim is total bullshit. My quoting you has nothing to do with your lies of desperation..hahhaha! You most certainly were caught diddling yourself...LOL!

Thank you for reviving the thread so all can see to what extent you need carry your lies..LOL..imagine feeling as low as you do with the only escape route you have is more lies that none believe...LOL...HAHHAHA!
Not only did you accuse Scott of being myself, you were in the midst of reducing yourself to shifting to another alias of yours and your incompetence did you in,bwaaaaahaaa! This is YOUR life, Frank Gilliland,,,,,,,quick,,run and and pretend to be another,,talk to yourself,,,,,lol,,liar!
Here is your post without anyne elses dialog..LOL. You're a lowlife Frank, and have been reduced to talking to yourself and lending yourself support because you are such a non-liked character on this ng,,,LOL. I'm stepping on your hair lip, Frank..

reason you are so confused is because the post was not intended for you to

After I read it I then replied to my first post to acknowledge that he had already made the same observation. If I had read all the new posts for the day before beginning my replies I wouldn't have posted the first message. Now unless you need me to clear up any more of your ignorant suspicions hatched from your desperation, I have to go work and earn a living while you waste the day trolling the groups under all your aliases.

Have a good one, Dave!

What Twistedhed and Dave Hall have in common....

1. Boating
2. Age Group
3. Radio

A ham callsign has no meaning in a cb newsgroup???It has been pointed out here many times by the keyclowns there are hams who are also cbers and the only difference between ham and cb is just a peice of paper so dont try that BS in here brainbluster.

You know,,,all these years and I do believe you are the first to ever ask me such a direct question concerning such "hammie" status.

Nahh, that wouldn't be so incredible. Code is easy. I know a bunch of us learned it on Archer (RS) walkie talkies back in the day.

>by the way do you really like that frisbee golf >crap???

Let's just say there was no "official" word on the activity until a certain party saw a demand for it.

> man i see those pinheads playing that in the >park and they are the biggest pussies i ever

Considering many make a living at the sport, and Ken Climo (World Champ many times over) makes upward of six digits per year, I do believe these good folk found a way to make a living do what they love,,,hey, when you live and are raised on the sandy white beaches, a frisbee is second nature only to surfing and fishing. I'll take those "pussies" jobs over anyone elses professed position on this group,,,,with the exception of mine, after all, I AM Riley <g> (NOT Hollingsworth) and many, such as you indeed have been blessed to witness, want the Life of Riley!
Hey,,,,,what happened over there, anyway? Why is west Texas dominating my freeband frequencies? What happened,,you take a day off or something? Stop being so lazy during the holidays...there are plenty of stations up north that need some warm paradise RF weather to help thaw them out,,,,after all, I should know, I've been hitting them with heat everyday.

LOL...no one else in the conversation but Frank Gilliland talking to himself and lying about his nym shifting activities..LOL. Imagine, lying about your newsgroup activities,,,hahahaha,,what a fun concept Frank has recently become...LOL. Whatcha gonna do frank, try blaming Scott again for what you said? What a lowlife I have made you,,,,,

>Well, at least now I can finally figure out

I'm betting you can figure out nothing for yourself.

See? I'm always right when it comes to you..LOL.

Well, that's your communication deficit acting up again. That you need squirm now is an added bonus.

More deficits emanating from you. The more your post is looked at, the more you squirm.
If you didn't suffer so, you wouldn't be hallucinating that I asked any explanation of you. Your ego dictates you say your piece, but in order to do so, you must first create a false premise with a lie,,,in this case, that "I" somehow requested your excuse,,,LOL,,I didn't. I merely pointed out your lie and laughed at your lies and self-contradictions outloud.

NOTICE TO ALL VISITORS

WHAT YOU ARE ABOUT TO WITNESS IS AN AMATEUR RADIO STATION LICENSED AS _____ BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION IN WASHINGTON, DC. BEFORE YOU ASK THE QUESTIONS, HERE ARE THE ANSWERS:

The total cost of this equipment cannot be discussed here as it creates marital conflicts.

No, we cannot send a message to your brother in Hong Kong. We suggest you call Western Union.

This is strictly a hobby; we do not have the facilities or the time to fool around with TV sets, radios or hi-fi. We suggest that you see a serviceman.

Yes, the antenna in the backyard is essential to the operation of the equipment.

The farthest station we have contacted has been just east of Jesus.

The cards on the wall are called QSL cards. They are confirmation of contacts made with other stations.

It is technically impossible for this station's equipment to interfere with television reception, telephones or stereo systems. Any interference problems of that nature are caused by design flaws in the home-entertainment devices themselves.

An Amateur Radio station may only be operated by a highly qualified, technically skilled electronics expert. It takes dedication, training and intelligence to reach the level of competence that justifies one to be licensed by the United States Federal Government. Therefore, it is not considered inappropriate to show proper awe, respect and general obsequiousness when I discuss my hobby or operate the controls.

Speak in a low and soothing tone.

Do not disagree with me in any manner.

Say no bad words and tell no off-color jokes.

It is customary for guests to make complimentary remarks about this station and its licensed operator when talking to other hams on the air.

DO NOT TOUCH ANYTHING, TURN ANY KNOBS, SIT ON EQUIPMENT, ETC. I HAVE LOST SEVERAL VISITORS BY ELECTROCUTION IN THE PAST FEW WEEKS.

For the record, Peter: I was not saying that you were wasting your time. My comment was directed to either DouGay or Georgie-girl who posted asking why didn't you complain about this or that; and was that if you did so you would be wasting your time since they did enough whining and complaining for all of us.

Your posts have been useful, unlike their trolling, which is a complete waste of time and bandwidth.

> Trolls are like diarrhoea - diagnosed by the rapid, uncontrolled, noisy, > foul smelling emissions... and best starved.

Except that these trolls don't go away even when starved; they get more belligerent and deviant instead. It's the attention they crave, and just like spoiled little children they don't care whether it's positive or negative attention they get as long as they get it.

> So, are you up for starving the parasitites - could you live without the > noise?

Other than correcting their lies (which are myriad) and throwing their crap back into their faces occasionally, I think we could all live without the noise. But don't kid yourself, they firmly believe that they're on a mission and they won't go away.

NOTICE TO ALL VISITORS (KEYCLOWN VERSION)

WHAT YOU ARE ABOUT TO WITNESS IS AN OUTLAW CB RADIO STATION (i.e. KEYCLOWN) UNLICENSED AND IN COMPLETE VIOLATION OF REGULATIONS OF THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION IN WASHINGTON, DC. BEFORE YOU ASK THE QUESTION, YES IT IS AGAINST THE LAW BUT I HAVE SOME GREAT EXCUSES. HERE ARE SOME OTHER ANSWERS:

The total cost of this equipment cannot be discussed here as it is stolen, illegal, bootleg, etc.

Keyclowns as a rule cannot have sex with heterosexual women. If you are interested in this hobby we suggest you give homosexuality, anal sex, buggery, etc. a try.

This is stuff we bought from other outlaw radio dudes so don't ask us details of how it all works; also we do not have the knowledge to fool around with TV sets, radios or hi-fi. We suggest that you call Radio Shack cuz they got answers.

Yes, that rusty metal pole leaning over in the backyard really is the antenna and I got the SWRs to prove it but I am hoping to get one of them new 4 foot exterminators cuz I heard the shiny coil makes you so much louder.

The farthest station we have contacted has been just east of Milwaukee or so he said, we dont really know, see, because there is no way to confirm who anybody is cuz this is illegal outlaw radio, doncha know.

It is very likely that this station's equipment will interfere with television reception, telephones and stereo systems. If it does then tough titty. Interference problems of that nature are normally caused by design flaws in my linear (pronounced LEENYAR) and I aint givin it up no matter what you say so dont even bother complaining.

An outlaw CB radio station like this is usually operated by an unqualified, technically inept fool like me. It takes no dedication, training or intelligence whatsoever to yell AUDIIIOOOOO or HELLLO SKIPLAND and sound like you are in the bottom of a trash can. Therefore, it is considered appropriate to offer beer, glue, smack, or crack cocaine to the operator (me).

Speak in a southern accent, like an ignorant hillbilly, a drunk, or a hip hop gangsta.

Use profanity as much as possible.

Loudly accuse people of "being on your channel" and threaten to "come kick their ass".

Repeat one or more of these phrases: DONCHA KNOW, RIGHT BACK ATCHA, WORLDWIDE, MERCY ME, TAN FER THAR, HALLOO AUDIOOO.

DO NOT TOUCH ANYTHING, TURN ANY KNOBS, SIT ON EQUIPMENT, ETC. I HAVE LOST MANY THOUSANDS OF BRAIN CELLS BY RF AND ELECTROCUTION IN THE PAST FEW WEEKS.

Nahh, that wouldn't be so incredible. Code is easy. I know a bunch of us learned it on Archer (RS) walkie talkies back in the day.

  Let's just say there was no "official" word on the activity until Considering many make a living at the sport, and Ken Climo (World Champ many times over) makes upward of six digits per year, I do believe these good folk found a way to make a living doing what they love,,,hey, when you live and are raised on the sandy white beaches, a frisbee is second nature only to surfing and fishing. I'll take those "pussies" jobs over anyone elses professed position on this group,,,,with the exception of mine, after all, I AM Riley <g> (NOT Hollingsworth) and many, such as you indeed have been blessed to witness, want the Life of Riley!

  Hey,,,,,what happened over there, anyway? Why is west Texas dominating my freeband frequencies? What happened,,you take a day off or something? Stop being so lazy during the holidays...there are plenty of stations up north that need some warm paradise RF weather to help thaw them out,,,,after all, I should know, I've been hitting them with heat everyday.

>as a extra class ham why do you bother with >the freeband???

Aw, c'mon amigo. Let's assume I was an extra for the sanity of a few here that can't handle being wrong, si? There is no comparison of hammie HF to freeband HF. Have a listen to 10 meter some time. With the exception of contesting, you can't raise another state on 10 most of the time, let alone another country...but the good 'ol freeband just above 11 meter,,,,ahhhh! Besides, repeaters are only fun the first week or so. I'm more inclined to have fun when it's my rig and antenna doing the long distance talking with no help from anyone else but mudda nate-cha. Besides, the contacts are better and for some reason, even the stuffy, elitist hammies lose their attitudes on the freeband.,,,no matter what they run, their is always someone running something bigger. Perhaps this is the true reason why some can't handle the band...they can't handle someone being louder or better or (fill in your fave adjective).

Heheh,,,sure you do, at length you've often spoke quite eloquently about the matter.

Capitalism. Gotta love it. Compared to your televised other pro sports, it's cheap pay (golf comes to mind immediately).

The questions used on the tests come from a 'question pool' -- complete with the answers -- that is provided to the public by the FCC. And all the questions are multiple-guess to boot. It's never been easier. Check out QRZ.com

Actually I have been around. New? No. Just listen alot more than post. But it just amazes me the class of trash that hangs out to post such drivel and argue over such stupid stuff.

I gave the CB Bandwidth and the NG a rest for a while. I had enough annoying people to be around at Fluke. That last thing I wanted was to be annoyed by a bunch of retard waterheads on the airwaves. I pop back up in the NG and answer a couple questions. Which in the end it seems most threads end in a couple baboons trying sling their little e-penis, argueing over childish crap. You know what they say about arguing in NG's, So I need not repeat myself.

Obviously you felt the need to reply, so if the shoe fits, wear it. I choose most of the time not to even click on the troll threads. Seems it must just be more fun argueing over the net than on the airwaves anymore.

But what I was pointing out was the nonsese, you just seem to take notice, why is that? If your not a bozo on the NG, then you shouldn't need to reply to my comment. But for some odd reason you felt compelled to respone, why is that? Oh I know that is cause I must be "New Newsgroup Moderator". Yeah thats it I'm new to and maybe thinking you can bash on me will make you some how feel more manly. Well keep on, keepin on. I wish you the best of luck and good day to you sir.

Let them whine on.
They make up some false "approval" idea based on the notion that, if you don't whine like them, you must approve.
Of course, being trolls, they may not have not thought that some people may not know what words such as "Crisco" are supposed to mean - as they are not in the English dictionary. In such a position, you can neither approve or disapprove of use of the word - so you keep out of it. Other people may understand, but just have no wish to join in the pointless crud.

If you approve, you either make the posts or speak out in favour of them, if you disapprove you whine like a woman. Keeping out of the argument is neither... it is just keeping out of it. The trolls wish to get more people involved, so they accuse them of being part of an argument just by keeping out of it.

The fact is that I have killfiled any subject with "Cathy Lee" or "crisco" in them, as they all appear to be just to goad people. I have no time for the crud, either to read it or to reply to it - it isn't in any way directed at me or to do with CB.
And, before I am accused of "approving" of the "gillinad" posts - I have killfiled that name too. Maybe I should killfile the real one again - he seems to be getting a liking for my leg.

Regards,

Peter.

You say "most"... how about some figures to prove that claim.
I thought not, so I will look at my cache...

My cache shows me in a total of 14 out of 191 threads in this newsgroup.
I don't know about your definition of "most"... but it doesn't fit in with the English meaning of the word.
What is your problem - English language, basic math, or just an inability to tell the truth. It has to be one of the three.

You, on the other hand, post in more troll threads than I post in any type of thread on this group.
You really should check the figures and look in the mirror before shouting your mouth off.

>You say "most"... how about some figures to prove that claim.

Ok, you asked for it......

Out of the last 53 posts by "Brainbuster" (that's you) in the google archives, here are the troll threads you posted in, and the number of times you posted in them:

A new record for AKC..... (1)
new cb ng? (5)
ALL MUST READ!!! (10)
Troll List (4)
KC8QJP: Tax Fraud? (2)
A new record for Twisty..... (4)
Geogina - queen of the piles... (2)
Look at it another way... (5)
Truce? (3)
Where's "Dave or Debby" (2)
Hey Chimp brutha (1)
Re; great radio sites (1)
This Anti guy stuff is sickening..... (1)
Wishful thinking (1)
Help stop some of the troll fodder (2)

And for honorable mention, there are a couple non-troll threads that were trolled and you jumped right in:

how many cb channels are there? (1)
HR2510 Info (1)

So out of 53 posts you posted 44 times in troll threads and participated in two more troll exchanges. That means 86.8% of your posts are in response to trolls.

You, Peterbuster, are a sucker.

The "fact" is Brain, the jokers on the group pulled your card by calling attention to your methods. I'll admit, you can troll both sides with the best of them.......You need to make up your mind and stay with it instead of fanning the flames since THAT is what you are attempting to present yourself as. In this instance, I must agree with George,,,you've claimed you have killfiled him more times than anyone else, yet, you continue to add to his trolls while attempting to dismiss others that have said nothing at all to you.,,,you have lobbied quite a few unprovoked volleys towrd the lids and hobbyists both, and you continually bring up the same tripe while claiming you won't and don't do it, yet you continue. It's a cold day in hell, as I agree with Frank, in this specific instance here, also. I have no loyalties to anyone on this group, regardless of their imagined radio position, so I have no problem pointing out such behavior. Rigt is right and wrong is wrong, no matter where it comes from. You can't have it both ways, regardless of the sparkling image you attempt to present with smoke and mirrors. You're no different Brain,,clean your own back yard prior to slamming others, no matter what the reasoning.

Which repeater in PA is linked to Ohio?
Whats its call sign?
Input and output frequencies?

Linked to which repeaters in Ohio?

Where is the .875 machine located?

I have for sale a nice Contex 500 RF Amplifier. This amp runs five 6LQ6 tubes. This is a one pushing four tube configuration 1x-6LQ6 & 4x-6LQ6s. It is metered and is housed in the original light green cabinet. I tested it on 10 meters and it put out almost 500 watts PEP. It is in excellent cosmetic and operational condition. Price is $175 plus shipping from 79602.
Thanks, Charlie Hugg

As announced before, Sunday 21 December, "Studio DX", the Italian DX program of AWR, will be live for an hour, from 1000 till 1100 UTC.
We invite you to participate calling the number +39-055-414040.
You can also call before the beginning of the transmission leaving your telephone number and we will recall during the broadcast.
The transmission will be, as usual, on the frequency of 11730 kHz Adventist World Radio short waves, on the italian FM network of RVS, on the satellite and Internet (link via www.awr.org), and also on Radio Studio X in medium-wave stereo, 1584 kHz and FM.
We wait for you!
Greetings to you all,
Stefano Mannelli

Venting is normal. It's almost necessary for those of us that have a real life.
That is, just as long as it's directed at the appropriate target.

His "lists" aren't even accurate. They're based on ASSumptions and guesswork, just like Frankie's ASSumption that Twistedhed is "Dave".

Wrecked the truck last night. For those who care, I'm fine, the truck just needs a new front axle and a drive wheel. Tires are OK, though.

That is NO lie. ended up in a ditch, almost on my side, but somehow I managed to keep it on the wheels.. The front axle broke away, hit one of the fuel tanks....

But, on a happy note, I'm not hurt, Bambi will be in my crosshairs, and all the radios came through the accident just fine, including my old Grant... so all is not lost.

Glad to hear you are ok. You probably did learn a good lesson from this though. You HAVE insurance for a reason! Most people end up with more damage from AVOIDING animals in the road than if they just stay the path and hit the little (or big) fuckers. Moose and elk are still something that SHOULD be maneuvered around though.

Nice try george, where is the info about the links to Ohio? did you just pull that out of your ass along with dougs nose? there is nothing in your link that you posted about links to Ohio machines.

where is the .875 machine that you referred to?

more lies, you are out of control with your lies and back peddling to

LOL!! here let me show you what was posted

"I usually clean out the file once every 3 to 4 months because of the hundreds of alias he has"

Most of those are at least 8 months, maybe a little more, what part of what was said wasn't understood?

> and > you don't use a killfile as proof by your replies to me

Why did you change screen nics? You want to troll, otherwise I wouldn't have seen your reply.
Just like predicted, you change nics so that you can troll, if I bother you so bad kill file me, then you will never see my posts. You won't, your a troll.

Nope, if you stayed with one nic instead of using your aol account, violia and Comcast with you're mired of names I wouldn't see you unless someone quoted you in a response

> What other reason would there be but to keep a list

Oh my whhhhhhhaaaaaaaaaaa, you are an angry little troll aren't you <LOL!!!>
WA3MOJ BUSCH, GEORGE 1385 DEVON CIR, ALLENTOWN, PA 18104

If you tried to be more civil, not accuse people of being the third gunman on the grassy knoll, stopped harassing people, used proper language other might not complain about you.....Unless you like being a troll.

- ANYONE - that changes names that much is an ASSHOLE TROLL!!!

There's - NO OTHER - description.

That nym shifting shit is against any AUP. but I'm too lazy to report all that crap.

C'mon now geo, call me a net cop, you worthless fuck.

Of course that depends on your server's text retention too. This one runs around 180 days on average. My binarie retention is much less than that, but they offers -great- completion, and 50 GB/month for cheap. (that's major completetions/bandwidth)

Only TwistyDave is paranoid enough to route troll posts through Holland. In the 5533. smoking 25ltd now no needle movement

Uh oh. Virgin old Cobra 25ltd I just got yesterday started smoking today. D8 released the magic smoke. I saw on some mods pages to just jumper it so I did. The radio x-mits and receives perfectly but now I noticed the VU needle won't move. It won't move at all when I transmit and it just barely barely moves if I key a walkie talkie right next to it, otherwise no movement on receive either.

What do I check? Does the diode in D8 need to be replaced?

Thanks in advance for some pointers!

Then, to use your own logic, the fact that only Georgie-girl Busch routes posts through France is proof that he's paranoid. Or just drunk again, as usual.

So "in the absence of proof otherwise", Georgie-girl is a liar and a faggot, right? That's pretty obvious so far, and "the obvious is usually the truth".

The truth can be proven Frank. Your ASSumptions don't prove anything.
Neither do your repeated ASSertions.

You still haven't proven that he's "Dave", Frankie. Any more than anyone ever proved that I'm Pat Murphy. Or Steve Rogovich. Or AE352.

Because you can't.

Repeated ASSertions do not constitute proof.

Frankie did not "out" Twist; he just thinks he did. What Frankie did was "out" his own ego-tripping ignorance. He presented zero proof of anything else.

Remember, Frankie is an admitted liar; nothing he says can be believed.

Now who is he accusing of being me? First I was Pat Murphy, then I was Steve Rogovich, then I was AE352 (whoever that is)! It's obvious that Georgie-girl Busch is the one who needs a program! Funny thing is, I'm still Richard Cranium. Never changed.

Don't you know how to check the headers, Georgie-girl? ROTFLMAO! What a total maroon!

BTW:
As the original post was about Ham callsigns out side of the Amateur radio World, maybe you could clear up a another matter about how things work over there...

If you apply for a job as a baker, butcher, nurse, brain surgeon, pilot, etc. and in the Interview, when asked what qualifications or experience you have, you produce nowt but an Amateur Radio licence... would it get you the job?

All certificates have their place. None of the certificates I have would not get me any of the above jobs - they mean nothing to the people involved... but they have got me plenty of jobs in the fields they cover.

Happy Christmas.

How is a thread about CB groups a troll thread... is this not a CB group?
I'll bet you prefer the "gay" type posts.

>ALL MUST READ!!! (10)

It seems like a serious issue to me, and I gave a serious reply.

>Troll List (4)

You mean where I talk about promoting legal CB, after I was mentioned in the thread?
I see - legal CB is a troll subject, but "gay" issues are fine with you.

Oh yes, the one where I reply to the question...

The idea of getting this group back to CB topics seems to bother you.

It was a simple question about where a fellow CBer has gone to.
Of course, to you, topics about CB or CBers are trolling.

How is 1 post in a thread "repeatedly"?

>Help stop some of the troll fodder (2)

I can see how much the idea of people stopping the trolling bothers you.

I still only count 15 threads, even though they are not all troll threads.
However, take out the ones about CB, CBers, using this CB group for CB topics, and the ones with just one post (they do not justify your use of the word "repeatedly") - and you have very little left.

You prove my point... your use of the word "repeatedly" for a single message was rather massaging the truth, but using the word "most" was nothing more than a lie, just as calling a CB topic in a CB group "trolling" is a lie.

I do believe that the idea of this group being less of a warzone and more of a CB group scares some people sh*tl*ss.

>>You, on the other hand, post in more troll threads than I post in >>any type of thread on this group.
>The difference, dear Peterbuster, is that I never claimed I didn't.

I never claimed that you didn't, either.
You do seem to love the troll posts and arguments. But it still does not justify you calling threads about CB or CBers troll threads or troll posts just to massage figures. At least I stated where CB messages were killfiled because they were not of interest to me (such as for sale threads)... I didn't claim them to be troll posts to boost the figures, even for your posts.

I'll tell you what. As you whine so much about me responding to trolls who direct messages and questions at me (albeit once you know that I have killfiled them), that seems to just leave just one more.
Take that big stick from near your door, and put it by the computer. You can then shake it at the computer when you get angry. If you want to whine to someone, tell it to Socko, I won't be listening.

Happy Christmas, Frank.

Hi Jim.

Sure, their reaction is rather strange... and it fails to give a reason why someone should assume that anything used by a CBer on a CB newsgroup must be a "Ham" callsign - even when, as they admit, there is no such Ham callsign.

But, as it seems that they believe that an Amateur licence has some meaning to the CB radio service, and I know that some CB and Ham rules are different over there (such as you being allowed more power than us Brits), maybe you could clear up a few matters for me (and possible them)...

Does an American Amateur licence allow the holder:
1. To use more power on CB than a non-Ham can?
2. To use more CB channels than a non-Ham?
3. To use the "splits" or "alpha channels" as CB channels?
4. To use his Amateur radio to transmit on the CB band?
5. More rights to any CB frequency than a non-Ham CBer has?

Or does it make the person:
1. Obliged to give their Amateur callsign when using a CB radio?
2. A "radio cop" with the rights to harrass non-Ham CBers?
3. Lord and Master over non-Ham CBers?

Because if, like here in the UK, the Ham licence holding CBer is bound by the same rules as a non-Ham CBer... then the licence has no meaning on CB. And, as this is a CB newsgroup, it has no meaning here. If someone wishes to use it to identify themself, just as a "Social Security" or "National Insurance" number would, that is up to them. There could be 1000s of people with the same name, but a Ham callsign refers to just one person in the World.

One thing it does do, is allow people to look you up at sites like "qrz", and use the info to harass them, send them something used and nasty in the mail, 'phone them at all hours just to anoy them, or even turn up at their door. For that reason, I fail to see the appeal of giving ones callsign out on newsgroups.

Happy Christmas.

Peter.

Someone in a newsgroup who have no real interest in the group subject, but constantly posts messages (often with foul language and sexual innuendo) specially to cause trouble.

In some groups, they will try to set up opposing "factions", and cause arguments between them. New people on the group will be pressured by such trolls into chosing a "side" to be on. Often, these trolls will use different identities and post as people in each "faction" to stir up anger. Sometimes one may even argue with themself, using different names, to get others to join in and defend one of them.

Although newsgroup filters can help, you need to be aware that one or two trolls will keep using different names in an attempt to get the attention their mummy never gave them.
Many newsgroups have their resident trolls, some just get one or two pass through... but this group seems to be the breeding ground for newsgroup trolls.

Happy Christmas,

Peter.

If you really want to fcuk them off - stick around and talk CB issues

If it suggests alternative ways to use it, then that's fine. Just remember that you will get out more in one direction.
If you could mount it just to one side of the window, making sure that the bottom section is not too near a window below you, you may get away with it and get the better all round performance.

If you can mount outside on a wall, a dipole is a good basic antenna. It will mount to an outside wall, and is about 9 foot in each direction from the mounting point. It can be mounted horizontally, although that would not be as effective, and would make it directional (front + back).

I am assuming you are in a block of flats. Avoid indoor antennas if possible, but don't go killing yourself in an attempt to get an outdoor one.
If you use a mobile type, with a ground plane, avoid any Fibreglass type - steel whip types work better.
If you have a loft, you can get a "GP 4" ground plane kit to bolt a mobile antenna to.

Merry Christmas.

Well, with the help of the children, I finally got the decorations up.
No fairy or angel, so I put a (stuffed) toy "Stan" at the top of the tree.
The look on his face suggests that he is held in place by a rather wicked method... so I replaced him with Cartman, nobody feels sorry for him.

Crazy thing is that not only did it give my children a laugh, but their friends seem to recognise Stan and Cartman... what are people letting their children watch on TV?

Anyways, as the kiddies are off school now, and I have plenty to keep me busier than usual, I would like to take some of my annual holiday entitlement now... if nobody objects.
Merry Christmas to you all.

Peter.

I believe that my server usually retains about a month, as many do. I know that the MS servers have a long retention, I think close to a year in some cases.

As I only go on-line to collect and post the messages, I do not see when a message appears on my server.
All I can tell you is what is in the header...
Date: 21 Dec 2003 00:06:56 GMT
Which will be when you composed it, stuck there by your system and my newsreader is saying 00:06 (relating to GMT), which I suspect will be the time your server got it.

I know it does not take long, like Google does.

Merry Christmas.

Peter.

T'was the night before Christmas and Santa was a wreck...
The Elves were on strike,
For a bigger paycheck.

Four reindeer where down with a bad case of the flu
And the IRS wanted
a piece of him too.

His wife Mrs. Clause was on P.M.S. and scolded him soundly
Which caused him distress.

Then all of a sudden,
at the front door
came a very loud knock ,
and then nothing more

Santa stormed over all red in the face
Flung open the door , At a furious pace.
There stood an angel as pretty as can be,
and she said:
"Hey Fat boy, where do you want this tree?"

And that is how the angel ended up at the top of the Christmas tree.

Merry Christmas.

Peter.

Ignore the f*cker. Do not answer him. When I get time to read this group, I sort by name and just start marking the lusers as read. I switch back to thread view and enjoy the posts that remain. (about one third)

Guess I never forgot my roots...

But the "but" is about this...

No HAM, at least not a REAL HAM, would act in such a manner..
Therefore, they're not HAMs.. they just hold a ticket.

Happy Yule.

A 3 element vertical with a rotor would be more efficient. But a y quad or pdl 2 style beam would be better for dx/ local. Inverted V will handle a kw, if it's tuned...so many choices.

How was Twist involved? I doubt Frank wants me emailing him about it.

It's none of my business really. It didn't sound like Frank was enjoying it much tho..

True, it's bad enough with the trolling here, it's not right to do it here, let alone to someone's home or work.

I just got back from the west side of the state and everything is fine for now, thanks for asking. I can't provide any details other than the "plan" from Texas failed, and with some very costly results. It failed because some obsessed idiot (not you, Mopar) can't get it through his head that I'M NOT N7VCF!!!!! Anway, I'll be away from the group for a while.

BTW, I own three trucks, one of which is a '64 1/2T Dodge with an L-head 318.
Best damn truck I ever had!

Don't want a beam for it. Going with an inverted V and NVIS. Only reason for it is to communicate with the REACT folks who help out with our ham emergency group and the EMC. And I might shoot some skip now and then, LOL!

He's right, cutting limiters only increase splatter.
You are better off getting a good antenna, proper grounding and if needed a small good amp.

LOL!! I remember going through the SF Bay Bridge and idling along in traffic. Started on the bridge and bang, bang, bang I was hitting the girder for the top deck with the tip of the antenna.

LMAO!!! Not hardly, just a 102". That's why I went with a shorter antenna (Quad Wound), and still maintained a good signal.

Nope, had a friend that trims tree's for a living, put on the tree spikes, climb the tree. Had an Army bigstick on a 10' mast above the tree, works pretty good barefoot, you should hear it with the power on <g>

118 feet is way up there. You better be careful to not fry that tree-stick with power, it's a bitch to replace. ;)

I fried 2 of them, before I realized they're not built for that.

Lucky for me they weren't in a tree. <g>

Ever wrist rocket a long wire leader?

Both good and bad, really.

It is obvious what the good side is... no cost, and a possible small increase in CBers to talk to.

Was you on CB when the prices dropped?
The lower prices encouraged everyone and their granny to get one... and the wallies started flooding the channels. Cheapening it further may start that again.

Also, we have been arguing for SSB, among other things. Once they deregulate it, I am sure of what we will get from them in the future... feckall.
Just ask the Americans what changes they have had since their CB licensing requirement was removed. They cannot even get that crazy distance limit removed, the Gov. just don't want to know.
Just as well that they got the SSB before licensing was removed - maybe we should make an all out effort to harass the RA to allow it before they are replaced. Once they are replaced, their "studies" and notes may just disappear.

I don't think that we could get any less enforcement... but at least we wont be paying for something we are not getting.

Regards,

Peter.

Nope there not, but if I do run any power it's not more than a couple hundred. No need to run more than that at home IMO, especially since the antenna so high up.

> Ever wrist rocket a long wire leader?

LOL!! Nope, I've heard of that, but never seen it done. I do know of someone that did a type of mortar thing that shot some wire up once, that was a long time ago though.

I've tried dude, that's why I kill file them.
It's evident that he's is changing nics just to by pass the kill files. I see in another post he says I have imaginary file, I wouldn't have a "list" if I didn't add him to the kill file each time he changes.

Umm,

Yes i was on when it all cheapened up, back then it was just about all people who wanted to use cb for a purpose, and it was good to listen to 40 channels, usually 20 of which would be full.

Hi...

I am looking for a way to communicate with my wife while I am out doing errands.

Looking for something hand held with a range of 15-20miles that would either have no license or a small licensing requirement from the FCC.

Looking for something without a monthly fee also :)

Any suggestions?

Thank you!

Hmm, I think we're not quite on the same trail. All I need is about 10 watts to kick the amp properly. I don't like the idea of cutting the limiter myself, however, I'm betting a small change to get 8 or 10 watts out of it would not cause splatter. Maybe I'll just swap out the finals in the thing and see if the rig can drive 'em.
I do understand what you were saying about splatter and I hate hearing that on air too. Thanks, Steveo.

The ONLY thing I can see is you and wife both get your amateur Tech. licenses. Then you could work through a repeater (assuming there is one near y'all) and be pretty reliable. A CB , FRS or GMRS handheld is just not gonna cut it. Only other way is the cell phone thing but there goes that monthly fee.

Anyone else got any ideas?

What kind of equipment would we need to be able to do this? Also... Where can I find information on the licensing?

FREE!!

For advanced techs and serious radio hobbyists, we're now offering a FREE copy of our previously published "CB EPROM DATA BOOK" by Martin Pickering. (EPROM = Erasable Programmable Read Only Memory.) We sold it for many years but it's now out of print. This little manual of 60 illustrated pages is an absolute GEM of CB technical knowledge you'll just never find anywhere else. And it's yours for FREE from our Web site.

This book reveals the secrets of advanced channel programming, and picks up where our "CB PLL DATA BOOK" (www.cbcintl.com/pllbook.htm) leaves off. You'll get a thorough background in how these amazing programmable chips can be used to modify many popular CB PLL circuits for expanded frequency coverage. Covers the basic programming techniques, and even includes real PC board artwork for making EPROM circuits. Sample artwork includes EPROM boards for the popular MB8719, PLL02A, ï¿½PD2824, and ï¿½PD858 PLL circuits.

Best of all, the price is right! Download your FREE copy of "THE CB EPROM DATA BOOK" (948 KB Adobe PDF) at:

www.cbcintl.com/docs/EpromBook.htm

A pair of ICOM IC-V8000's or IC-2100H's for the mobiles, and one for the house, a couple of antennas for the mobiles and one for the house.. total investment of around $600.

http://www.qrz.com .. Check the column on the left hand side of the screen for VE sessions (testing Volunteer Examiners), practice tests, places to find study manuals, etc.

I should add that TexasTowers (http://www.texastowers.com) generally has the best prices on radios, but you can also check with R and L ( http://www.randl.com) for great prices on these rigs.

Lakeview Antenna (http://www.hamstick.com) has a couple of great options for 2 meter mobile and base antennas.

You'll also want to look for local Amateur clubs to find out more about the repeaters available in your area. QRZ can help you with that as well.

Go to www.arrl.org and take a look around. Maybe buy their 'Now you're talking' book and study for the EASY Technician Exam. Then look for a couple of Radio Shack HTX-202's on eBay (about $75.00 each), and you're good to go. And using repeaters, your range will typically be ALOT further that 20 miles.

Got 3 of the 2100s myself. They are just real hard to beat.

if you hook up an oscilloscope and do a before and after test you will see with your own eyes that clipping the limiter will cause splattery modulation

Removing the ALC limiter will cause distortion
There are other ways to increase output WITHOUT causing distortion
If you do not have or know how to use an oscilloscope then you need to have a professional do the work

No, had no intention of clipping the limiter. There are other ways.
Thanks for the link. Got a homebrew amp but it takes 10 to 50 watts to kick it. If I can't do it, thats fine, I'll just use the ol Cobra as is.

My buddy has one . He's gonna bring it over Fri. and I have some parts we're gonna try in it. Got the antennas up and coverage is pretty darn good already. But, boys must tinker with things. LOL!

That depends on whether it's stock or screwdrivered.

It's worth more stock. The built in power supply dies when run too hard.

Which, according to you, Frankie, would remove Twist as a suspect.
Since he's allegedly in Florida, not Texas. According to you, Frankie.

When you stop playing games, I imagine people will stop playing games with you. Logical, yes?

Do you think anyone will miss you while you're gone?

Never seen a mortar fired long wire, but I'm sure the military has them. At any rate, you take a wrist-rocket sling shot and a ball bearing, with fishing line.

You keep firing it until you get the loop over the top of the tree, then you pull the wire. It actually tunes ok too.

A tech ham license is about the only thing you can do and 2 mobile rigs,power supply for the home rig and a base antenna for home, mag mount for the car.

Ham licenses have no monthly fee. Go to www.arrl.org and check out the info there. A book called "Now your talking" will prepare you for the exam, Radio shack usually has it. You can also search for a radio club local to you on the arrl site, they can also help you if need be.

I can't have coffee anymore unless it's decaf eeeech. Remember the post around Thanksgiving about bad things in 3's, well the 3rd bad thing happened, went to emergency room from work tuesday night around 12:30 am. I've been diagnosed with high blood pressure, it was 174/110. While not really high, heart problems run in the family with my father and grandfather both having strokes. So now my doctor is getting on me about my coffee intake. Oh well Happy holidays everyone.

Hey Steve, you ever want old mopar parts, there is a place here in my home town that used to be a dealership, when he closed he kept all of his inventory and sells them to people who have classic mopar vehicles, last I knew he had a 72 charger RT special sitting inside that has never been titled.

heh reminds me of a co-worker a few years ago, I was forman of a drywall / plastering crew, and Terry one of my guys took 2 weeks off to go deer hunting in Mi. during bow season. The entire time he was there he never even saw a deer. His first day back, on the way to the job in Bryan Oh. a large buck jumped out of a ditch, slid across the hood of his pickup, came crashing trough the windsheild and tore the wholly hell out of the inside of his truck. Terry hit the brakes and the deer slid back out and took off, didn't hurt the deer at all.

I told him that deer was a big brother to the ones he was trying to kill during his vacation, and it came down for some revenge, he didn't find my joke to ammusing heheh.

Bummer, high blood pressure runs in my family too. I've been on Altace for years because of it. You'd better take care of that before it fry's your kidneys, or you end up with a stroke or some such.

Happy Holidays back at ya.

That's funny. I let one of my friends deer hunt on my land with his bow and he was out there a couple hours with no luck, so as he was giving up and walking back up to my barn, a big ole buck chased him thru my gates..after he'd stowed away his bow of course!

I never laughed so friggin hard in all of my life!!

Not in the Mid-Michigan area.....can't find any radio related magazine anymore! (except for something like Popular Electronics)

Heard some vicious rumor about the anti-radio relay league pulling magazines from "shelf sales" recently but I cannot confirm this.

That would be true if they were selling only ONE copy of it, but when I COULD find a copy of it locally, due to the fact that it almost ALWAYS sold out each month, I inquired as to how many copies they got at the closest store. They said 15 per issue.

So your math would be in slight error. Multiply that number by 15 and you get $718.56. Not bad for only one magazine, and when you consider they usually have at least 100 or more magazines on their shelves.

Cop out excuse. A person's beef would be with the ARRL, not the contracted agency, and it would be the ARRL's responsibility to deal with the contracted agency.

well you would think by listening to our hammie choir boys on this newsgroup that all the hash and trash is indigenous to the cb band......but the dirty little secret if you must know is that it is not.....letters by one's name mean nothing really in the scope of things......they just want you to think that it does........bang!!!!!

Does anyone know what the peformance is like on this cb? I just want to be able to check with the truckers on the freeway for bears.

Thanks!

DO NOT use a "hand held" in a car for purposes of listening to the CB to listen to and or talk to truckers.

I did a job recently where one of these people who do this FINALLY got so fed up with the pain & inconvenience and LOUSY range that he called me up and I got him a (a) REAL CB, which has a REAL microphone, and a REAL CB antenna I installed on the outside of his pick up. I talked to him 10 miles on our way apart !

So what you get INSTEAD, depending on what you want to spend, is a UNIDEN PC-68 or Pro-510 CB, a 3' or longer AMERICAN MADE magnet mount antenna (or other directly mounted antenna), and you WILL have a lot more range on it, and you won't get "hand held" DISEASE like my customer did. HAND HELD CB's are for WALKING around with, NOT to be used in vehicles! IF you think the "can you hear me NOW" Cell phone commercial was bad, you WILL be saying WORSe things IF you get a hand held CB and use it in the car!
Dave!!

WHY do you want it hand held? Are you going to MAINLY use it walking around with it, or in a vehicle? IF you are wanting to use it walking around with it, 2 meter ham is it. If you want it in vehicles or house, then CB will be cheaper.

I've had it. I was staying in London, off of I think it was called Russell square. Went to a small pub and sampled the local flavors, StrongBow was one of them.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1376 - December 26, 2003

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1376 with a release date of Friday, December 26, 2003 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. A California city says NO to BPL, an earthquake hits the central California and Kids Day 2004 is just a week or so away. The details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1376 coming your way right now.

RADIO LAW: LOMPOC SAYS NO TO BPL

The City of Lompoc, California, has said NO to Broadband over Powerlines, and its a big win for ham radio. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has been monitoring the situation and has the details:

Paul Andreasen, K1JAN, said it this way -- quote: "Well, we won ONE at least!"

What Andreasen is referring to was a plan by Lompoc city leaders to deploy Broadband over Powerlines in that city and the work of the ham community to head it off.

Andreasen is the ARRL Technical Coordinator for the Santa Barbara Section and a ARRL Technical Advisor for the League's Southwestern Division. And he was one of the organizers of the movement to stop the deployment of B-P-L in the Lompoc area.

In an e-mail, Andreasen says that his group sprang into action when they learned of plans to permit powerline broadband. He presented city leaders with several studies and some facts on interference effects to and from other licensed RF users.

Andreasen: "I know the mayor so I stopped in one day and asked him. He said yes they were and I introduced him to some of the facts of radiation not only causing problems with public communications, the CHP, Amateur Radio, etc., but about it also causing problems with the BPL system (itself).

Meantime, Eric Lemmon, WB6FLY, made the California Highway Patrol aware of their efforts. The statewide C-H-P radio system operates on low-band F-M which falls right smack in the middle of the spectrum used by B-P-L.

And then they wait until December 17th for the newspapers to report the results of their City Council vote on the matter. The good news: No Broadband Over Powerlines in Lompoc. Instead, the City Council approved a rival, non radiating system that uses fiber optic technology.

But that's not all. The company that did the study for the planners was told by the City Administrator not to entertain any radiating methodologies at all. All because ham radio operators spoke up and provided proof that B-P-L could be hazardous to the regions R-F environment.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting.

Another quote from Paul Andreasen, K1JAN, kind of sums it up. "We not only win one, but a bureaucracy kept it's word!" (K1JAN, W6YN)

RESCUE RADIO: THE CENTRAL CALIFORNIA QUAKE

Meantime, about 90 miles North of Lompoc an earthquake measuring 6 point 5 on the Richter scale struck at 11:15 a.m. on Monday December 22nd. Centered not far from the famed Hearst Castle tourist attraction at San Simmeon. Ham radio was quick to respond as we hear in this report:

K6YR: "Various parts of the livingroom looked like the U.S. Army had gone through a Fedeey'n safe house. Just glass and food stuffs all over the place. It was pretty scary."

--
That's Rob Griffin, K6YR, the Section Manager for the area where the quake hit. He was describing what his own home looked like after the magnitude 6.5 temblor hit. But Griffin would have to put off clean-up chores because there was other work that needed to be done:

--

K6YR: By noon the San Luis Obispo Emergency Operations Center had called out the ARES and RACES operators, primarily supporting the Red Cross in opening shelters in Paso Robles and Oceana. Morrow Bay also had Red Cross shelters and we provided communications for the Red Cross because their cell phones just weren't functioning for the first 12 hours after the earthquake.

--

According to Griffin with cellphones down, another way to communicate was needed by emergency workers. Enter ham radio volunteers.

--

K6YR: "We had some come from as far as South county which includes Oceana, Nipomo, maybe even some from Santa Maria to help support the North county Paso Robles ARES area."

The city of Paso Robles was hardest hit. Part of the historic downtown area was destroyed and two people were killed. Griffin says that hams were on scene providing communications for about 24 hours. When we spoke to K6YR some were still there:

K6YR: " There are some Amateur operators still manning the county Emergency Operations Center. but my understanding is that the communications and support up at the Paso Robles Police Department has closed down for the timer being and it appears that the Red Cross has its communications which relies on cell phones back in operation."

--

The bottom line. It took the cellular providers about 12 hours to get service back to most of the stricken area. Meantime ham radio operators were there, doing what they do best.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Burt Hicks, WB6MQV, reporting.

According to Cal Tech, Monday's temblor was the state's first deadly earthquake since the magnitude 6.7 shaker that hit Northridge California in 1994. (ARNewsline(tm))

RESTRUCTURING: VK TO GET REVISED AMATEUR RADIO SERVICE

Hams in Australia will soon have a restructured Amateur Radio Service. Some of the changes are coming soon Others are still being negotiated. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, is here with the details:

As reported, the Australian Communications Authority has decided to discontinue the Morse code proficiency requirement for the amateur service. The ACA will also remove the prohibition of third party communications to an amateur station in another country. If another country seeks a prohibition on such communications, this will be published and conveyed to the amateurs. To effect this decision, the ACA will need to amend the Radiocommunications Licence Conditions Determination No. 1 of 1997. Thats the Amateur LCD.

The ACA will directly inform the amateur community through established communication channels when the amendment has been made. The ACA will update the Amateur Internet Linking System consumer fact sheet to incorporate changes to third party communication arrangements.

The ACA will continue to impose limits on the purity and stability of emitted frequencies, and maximum power limits on amateur stations in accordance with the ITU's requirements for transmitting stations. The ITU requirements will be incorporated into the ACA's public information doments in early 2004 to ensure that they are available to amateur licensees.

The ACA will maintain current requirements for use of a callsign while operating an amateur station, as contained in sections 8, 37 and 44 of the Amateur LCD. The ACA is still considering whether to permit the abbreviation of callsigns during emergency services operations and training. A decision will be announced by mid-2004.

The ACA will proceed with the proposal for Australia to participate in European Conference of Postal and Telecommunications Administrations - CEPT. While liaison with CEPT about T/R 61-01 can commence immediately, the licensing arrangements necessary to implement this will not begin until mid-2004.

The ACA is working through submissions about the remaining proposals, including the licensing structure, and expects to announce decisions by mid 2004.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Graham Kemp, VK4BB, of Q-News Australia.

Obviously for hams down-under, this is the start of something big. (Q-News)

HAM RADIO EVENTS: KID'S DAY IS SUNDAY JANUARY 4

Its one of the two most important ham radio holidays of the ham radio year and its only about a week away. Of coarse we are talking about the first of two Kids Day operating events for 2004.

According to a recent ARRL Letter, the first Kid's Day of 2004 will occur on a Sunday. Next Sunday, January the 4th. And unlike most other on-the-air events, Kid's Day is not a contest. Rather its a time when experienced hams open their hearts and their stations to invite kids in and put them on the air to experience the magic that is ham radio.

Kid's Day will run from 1800 to 2400 UTC, and there's no limit on operating time. The suggested exchange is a youngsters name, age, location and favorite color. Most operation will be found on 14.270 to 14.300, 21.380 to 21.400 and 28.350 to 28.400 MHz and local 2 meter repeaters.

Guidelines for Kids Day are available at www.arrl.org/FandES/ead/kd-rules.htm. And -- oh yes: If you miss this Kids Day operating event the next one won't take place until Saturday, June 19th. (ARRL)

HAM RADIO EDUCATION: IARU CONGRATULATES NEW HAMS

A top IARU official has welcomed Albania's newly licensed hams to the hobby. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, is here with more:

Ole Garpestadt, LA2RR, is IARU Region 1 Chairman. And while participating in the recent graduation ceremony for Project Goodwill Albania 2003, he took the time to congratulate the new Albanian licensees, and welcomed them to the bands.

Garpestadt credited the University of Triana and the program organizers with their success in conducting the training and succeeding in something that the IARU itself has had only limited results with. It should be noted that LA2RR participated in final negotiations with Albanian authorities for their entry to CEPT and bringing the Albanian licensing regime into line with the rest of the CEPT world.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF

One final note on Project Goodwill Albania 2003. Its organizer, the famed D-Xer Martti Laine, O-H-2-B-H, was awarded a "Senior Fellow of Polytechnic University of Tirana" at the graduation ceremony. In his closing remarks Liane thanked everyone involved for what he termed as their five weeks of serious effort. (Via press release)

HAM RADIO EDUCATION: 2004 - 2005 FAR SCHOLARSHIPS OPEN

Meanwhile, here in the United States, it's ham radio scholarship time again. This, with word that Foundation for Amateur Radio is providing applications for hams to apply for the 59 awards that it will administer for the 2004 through 2005 academic.

Right now, the foundation is inviting Amateur Radio licensees planning to pursue a full-time course of study beyond high school, and who are either enrolled in or accepted for enrollment at an accredited university, college or technical school to compete for these scholarships. Awards range from $500 to $2500 with preference in some cases going to residents of specific geographic area or to those pursuing certain study programs.

The cutoff date is April 30, 2004. Application forms are available by mailing a request to FAR Scholarships, P.O. Box 831 Riverdale, Maryland. The Zipcode is 20738. (Foundation for Amateur Radio)

ELECTRONIC ASSISTANCE: REPAIRCLINIC.COM

A new Web site has been created to usher Americans away from their throwaway habits and into the world of yesteryear when we just kept it working.

Called RepairClinic.com, the cyberspac port provides aids for those looking to repair anything from a refrigerator or air conditioner to more complex devices such as microwave ovens. The site appears to derive most of its income by selling spare parts and factory manuals.

At the moment the site sticks to typical kitchen appliances. It does not provide advice on such items as radios, T-V sets, VCRs and other consumer electronics. At least, not yet. (Science Today)

RESCUE RADIO: THE LATEST TOWER TO COLLAPSE IS....

A 528 foot tower supporting antennas for WMGX and WYNZ in the Portland, Maine area collapsed on Thursday, December 11th. As reported on Scott Fybush's web site, the reason for the tower falling appears to be a guy wire that apparently snapped. The story, and a photo of the tower prior to collapse, can be seen at www.fybush.com/nerw.html Its not known if any ham radio repeaters shared this support structure. (CGC)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: JENNICAM GOING QRT

And, by the time you read this, Jennifer Ringley will have taken her famed jennicam.org webcam off the Internet and Q-R-T. This, after 7 years of her permitting the world to watch her life through a cyberspace eye.

Ringley was 20 and a student at a Pennsylvania college when she installed a web camera in her room and launched jennicam.org. That was in April of 1996 and over the years the cameras have followed her every movement 24 hours a day.

A self-described former computer geek who now lives in Northern California, Ringley has posted that her web cam was intended to be a fun way for her mom or friends to keep tabs on her. Also, that it was an interesting use for the digital camera that she bought on a whim in the bookstore.

Now, the site has a notice saying it will be closing on December 31st. No reason is given and Ringley has not respond to e-mail query's from the press. (Published news reports)

NEWSLINE NEWS: MORE THANK YOU'S WITH N6TCQ

Ladies and gentlemen, we end this year and begin the next by saying thank you to more listeners who kept the Amateur Radio Newsline on the air throughout 2003. Here's Andy Jarema, N6TCQ:

This week we have the second half of our list of people who helped us financially in the month of April:

Linda Reeder of Salt Lake City, Vic Hartpence, W7RKU of Sparks, NV, The Puget Amateur Radio Society of Kirkland, WA, The Quarter Century Wireless Association of Eugene, OR'. Bill Alexander, KR6G of Quincy, CA, Leo Halog, KR6EG of San Fransisco, Mark Lunge and the MSARC N6MPX Repeater System, San Leandro, Monthly contributor William Walters, WA2IBM, of San Jose, Monthly contributor Scott Hensley of the Area Communications Team, San Jose SCATS, the Southern California Amateur Transmitting Society, in West Covina, Our good friend Dave Bell, W6AQ of Hollywood, And Newsline Staff volunteers who paid out-of-pocket to keep Newsline on the air.

Thank you to everyone. Your April response to our crisis was exceptional, and we promise to do our best to continue to earn your care and support. A reminder that Newsline is a 501c 3 California non-profit corporation. FCC regulations prohibit us from telling you exactly how to support us, but that information is on our website at www.arnewsline.org. I'm Andy Jarema,

HAM RADIO AND SPACE: THE MARS EXPRESS

An amazing space DX record for ham radio. This as Charlie Suckling, G3WDG reports that he has successfully received the 'Mars Express' deep-space probe using his 3 meter dish antenna.

Mars Express has been on its way to the red planet since the 2nd of June and was scheduled to arrive on Christmas Day. The signal was earlier received on 8.4 GHz by James Miller, G-3-R-U-H, at the AMSAT D-L ground station in Bochum, Germany. This, when the probe was 107 million kilometers away on November 16th.

Although traveling at the speed of light, the signal took about six minutes to reach earth. The AMSAT D-L website has information on how amateurs can receive Mars Express.

The AMSAT-DL website at www.amsat-dl/pa5/reception_g3ruh.htm provides information on how amateurs can receive Mars Express. (GB2RS)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: PC SAT UPDATE

AMSAT North America reports that P-C sat is doing fine and will continue in good sunlight through New Years Eve. The satellite is seeing about 50 packet users per day and 30 per pass over the USA.

Anyone with a 2 meter transceiver and T-N-C can easily copy this bird. Just tune the radio to 145.825 and watch for 1200 baud normal AX.25 packet. (AMSAT)

DX

In DX, the FMRE Sunday bulletin has announced that the X-F4 DXpedition to Socorro Island will begin March 3rd, and run for two weeks. The call sign to be used is X-F-4-I-H. 8 operators from Mexico will be active all bands and modes including VHF, UHF and satellite. No QSL information is available at this time. (XE1KK, N4GN)

And S57CQ expects to be in Bhutan by the time you hear this newscast. He plans to spend as much of his spare time as possible active as A52Q. QSL as directed on the air. (RSGB)

Lastly PA4WM will be in Turkey for six months, on a four week rotation schedule. He operates SSB, CW and RTTY as TA1/PA4WM with 100 watts into a G5RV. He plans to upgrade his antennas with a vertical and receiving antenna for 160 and 80 meters at the earliest available time. (GB2RS)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HEAVY METAL ON THE HAM BANDS

And finally this week, Heavy metal is back on the ham bands. No, not the rock music kind. We are talking heavy metal as in vintage AM gear. Paul Goodman, K2ORC, has more in this report filed over the air - using AM :

Sunset on December 27, 2003 will mark the kickoff of this year's Heavy Metal Rally. A showcase for AM transmitters that weigh at least 250 pounds and produce 250 watts or more, the annual event is sponsored by Electric Radio magazine.

The Rally has become a coast to coast highlight for many AM amateur stations in North America with activity on 160, 75 and 40 meters. The event goes all night, ending at sunrise on December 28

Participants who want to compete for the top place trophy submit logs to the event coordinator. Scoring for the Heavy Metal Rally utilizes a point system that takes into account, among other things, total number of contacts and the number of states and bands worked. In a departure from traditional contest-type scoring, a station can receive an extra point for each positive signal or audio report received by the event coordinator from other hams and SWLs.

Scoring notwithstanding, many AM fans participate in the Heavy Metal Rally simply for the pleasure of talking and listening to other AM stations with strong signals and outstanding audio.

Winter HF operating conditions generally lead to numerous coast to coast contacts featuring a diversity of transmitters. It would not be unusual for listeners to hear, an amateur in Colorado on a restored Gates broadcast transmitter chatting with someone in California running a Collins broadcast transmitter.

Contact Audio
--

While broadcast transmitters may be the first thing to come to mind when picturing equipment that meets the Heavy Metal weight and power criteria, the Rally also features a sizeable number of homebrew and military rigs. For more information on the 2003 Heavy Metal Rally, including the email address for log submissions and a list of suggested operating frequencies, please visit amfone.net -- that's alpha-mike-foxtrot-oscar-november-echo - dot - net.

Reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline, this is Paul Goodman, K2ORC.

Sounds great, doesn't it! You can hear more for yourself on Saturday evening December 27th overnight into Sunday the 28th on 160 and 75 meters. Its the 2003 Heavy Metal Rally on your radio to enjoy. (ARNewsline(tm))

Anybody know the value of the resistor that goes from one side of the variable pot to the input of the driver transistor? I know the value of the variable pot and the resistor that goes to ground are 100 ohms but the resistor that goes to the input is burned all the color codes off.

Voltage in would have nothing to do with this resistor.
It is the resistor that goes from the left side of the variable pot down to a connection that leads to the input transformer of the driver (2SC2290) transistor.
That is the left side when you have the amp front facing you.
Thanks

Funny how over the past few days things got cool and quiet here, ay?? Twathed was playing you all for fools with his forges and his lies and stupid ass comments. His old email address will no longer be seen on rec.radio.cb, and he knows why.

His Lords and Masters the AKC have so ordered.

Hope everyone had a great holiday, I sure did. Lotsa new toys and lotsa friends and family, you know the drill. New Year's Eve looks even better.

I leave you with a thought...long ago it was foretold that peace would reign when twithed was spanked. It does, and he was. Funny, isn't it?

Big Dog on Trinity Lane would be a good place to STAY AWAY from!
He's behind a truck stop in a mobile home that has been gutted and serves as his shop.
There are a bunch of locals who talk on either ch 4 or 7. They can give you some ideas.

There are no good cb shops in Nashville, the closest one i will recommend is West of Nashville at the exit for the Flying J and Phantom 309.
I think it's exit #186, he is behind the truck stop next to the Phantom 309.
Next best is in West Memphis on a access road close to I-55 south of the Petro, they are on channel 5

The 'best' antenna would be one designed for mobile use. The 'best' way to install it is by following the enclosed directions.

No. They're limited to 4 watts AM and 12 watts SSB like everyone else.

No.

No.

No. Absolutely prohibited under CB Rules. They're not type accepted for CB use.

No.

No. Amateur callsigns are irrelevant on CB. Different Rules apply.

No, although some here seem to think otherwise.

Nope. In fact, some of the so-called licensed hams (and non-hams) who prowl this newsgroup could learn a few things from the CBers.

That is correct here, also.

Look Doug! Appears you've fallen down on the job! Tell ya what, you sit here and yank your crank and try to get these cancelled. But this is only a small sample, so I suspect you'll be typing for days. Oh, no, wait...that's right, last time you bragged about getting auctions cancelled, they were all still there. well the reason is that silly boys like you , hide behind your isp and they won't give you up unless it is a court order or something....so enjoy your fun here, such as it is....in real life you must be a

Grand Daddy ran whiskey in a big block Dodge, he bought it at an auction at the Mason's lodge. Johnson county sheriff, painted on the side.

Just shot a coat of primer, then we looked inside. Him and my uncle tore that engine down...I still remember that rumblin' sound..

You could smell the whiskey burnin' down copperhead road. ;)

This radio called a IC-78, has all 40 cb channels and if you hold down the FC button for a second you open up the radio and can TX up and down.

100 Watts PEP

not bad and its nice.

Better check your local book seller your self. Barnes & Noble and Books a Million around here and no QST.
NO QST anywhere.
CQ always did suck.
Pop Comm--ditto--SUCKS.
Monitoring Times is kinda OK.
73 & Ham Radio are gone.

If I were interested in ham radio, I'd have a ham radio license.

But I'm a SWL and so I could care less about QST, CQ, 73 and Ham Radio. It's "interesting" to see so many x-posts to r.r.s about ham radio.

About 45 years ago I used ta listen to hams and decided that I didn't want to be one nor continue listening to them. Most of my closest friends are hams but they've given up on "converting" me (even when I help them with tech "stuff").

The great majority of hams are nice people and they sure do justify more than their hobby when there's an emergency. But why they think that SWLer's are interested in /their/ hobby still puzzles me.

There are times when there are mutual interests. When a ham goes feral and starts broadcasting as a pirate and a felon, this can connect both hobbies and such as that makes me not want to just automatically killfool all the ham newsgroups.

But look at this SUBJ: "Why you don't like the ARRL".

And - of the four newsgroups - two are for SWLers and CBers.

May I ask for as little more care when deciding to what many newsgroups one posts to?

Thanks,

My Drake TR7 CB is nice and all but it drifts a little. My Kenwood 440 SAT, I

Sadly, we don't always have much control over where messages are cross-posted, Gray. Since some Hams are CB'ers and others SWL's, the discussion itself may have actually started in one of those non-ham newsgroups. In other cases, it is trolls (in any one of the newsgroups) trying to belittle Ham radio and it's operators (posted to a number of newsgroups in an effort to get the widest possible audience for that). In still other cases, the discussion started in a ham radio newsgroup, with other newsgroups added by participants who mainly frequent those other newsgroups. Whatever the case, you're certainly not alone - we get our share of messages relating to other topics posted in the Ham radio newsgroups as well.

I could have an entire house full of amplifiers and the FCC couldn't touch them without presenting PROOF of illegal use. Read the CB rules,

Where are you anyway?? You can get MT on line. CQ and POPComm did always suck. 73, at least Wayne's editorial, was pretty weird. You can get QST all over the place around the Toledo/Detroit area. All the bookstores have it, a couple of drugstores have it, and I think at least one of the Meijer's has it too.

Well, since almost all HF transceivers are also good to great general coverage receivers, there is a link in equipment. Besides QST does antenna articles, and receiver reviews too! You are right about listening to hams though, it's about as boring as it gets, unless there's someone going off their rocker, or like on 3.950LSB when the liberty net and those "volks" get jammed. It's always fun.

?????????? I need a little help on that one; it doesn't make sense. I don't "listen" to truckers on channel 19-- unless there is a traffic tie-up and I need to see which lane is best. I wouldn't "jam" truckers, or anyone else for that matter. Got no time for such foolishness; such activity is immature childs play.

Now. I WILL listen for truckers that stray onto 28 MHZ and bootleg on the frequencies. I WILL operate on 10 Meters with the power that is authorized to me if necessary to establish and maintain contact I WILL run fast CW right over the top of them ignoring their attempts to operate unlicensed. (No, it is NOT "illegal" to "interfere" with stations whose transmissions are not legal to start with--Just ask Riley H, the FCC attorney.)

Bother the truckers running their radios on the band they have every privilege to do so? Operate ANY radio station knowingly, illegally? Run an amp of the CB band? Nope. There's better things to do than to mess with the CB service.

I would say the 3 main problems with cb are; (CB is not a form of ham radio, it was never intended to be, hence the name "Freeband.")

1. People coming on and just TXing over your transmissions

2. Trolls (who ever or what ever they may do)

3. People broadcasting music on more than one channel at once!

Yes, (I'm not part of the antis-) you can have lots of illegal amps and not get cited. And you could "collect" them on a shelf to keep forever. If you have not committed some other infraction, then it is a moot point. You have to do something to get FCC's attention to start with. Then the rules (Rule 10 and 11) apply and could cause you a 'rathuh sticky wicket, eh wot" as the old Brit aristocrats used to say.
And the rule (and it has been quoted many times) states as follows:

RULE 10 - Power Output
{A} Your CB station transmitter power output must not exceed the following values under any conditions:
AM [Amplitude Modulation] - 4 watts carrier power [CP]
SSB [Single Side-Band] - 12 watts peak envelope power [PEP]
{B} If you need more information about the power rule, see Part 95/Subpart E.
{C} Use of a transmitter which has carrier [CP] or peak envelope power

[PEP]in excess of that authorized voids your authority to operate the station.
RULE 11 - Linear Amplifiers
{A} You may not attach the following items (power amplifiers) to your type-accepted CB transmitter in any way:
[1] External radio frequency [RF] power amplifiers, also called linear amplifiers, or linears;
or
[2] Any other devices which, when used with a radio transmitter as a signal source, are capable of amplifying the signal.
{B} There are no exceptions to this rule and use of a power amplifier voids your authority to operate the station.
{C} The FCC will presume you have used a linear or other external [RF] power amplifier if-
[1] It is in your possession or on your premises; and
[2] There is OTHER EVIDENCE that you have operated your CB station with more power than allowed by CB Rule 10.
{D} Paragraph C above in this section does not apply if you hold a license in another radio service (HAM, etc.) which allows you to operate an external RF power amplifier.

So, you can see that it is Rule ll, sec 1 that could bring about that "sticky wicket". By getting attention called to some other activities, those amplifiers are now in FCC's headlights, so to speak, and are in danger of being seized, or causing you a fine. But, again, you are still right so long as you don't call attention to those "illegal" radios/amps. They could sit there forever----just as you said.

Want to bet they slip in to the Ham 10m Ham band from time to time using a bootleg call sign. Tim Nebo used a mod'ed Yeasu FT-840 to do the same thing. Boy did he get hot with the denials when I brought up the subject that he was using the rig on something other than 11m, like bootlegging on the Ham HF bands. He even publicly asked about using the so called "Charlie" frequencies, used by airliners over the ocean for long distance communication, on this very news group.

Now that the sun spots are on the wan the only DX
these freebanders are going to see "regularly" will be on the lower Ham HF bands. Since they don't have any morals about ignoring Part 95 rules I'm sure that some of them can't resist the urge to spin that VFO dial down to a Ham band. All it takes is a simple dipole and some coax to get on the band for them.

I'll be great sport to see how many bootleggers can be ID'ed and busted. Maybe even suggest it as a new form of contesting to the ARRL!

What is "channel 17"? Not familiar with it. What's so special about this "channel"? Tell ya what, I am in the Charlotte Metro area. If I were
'jamming' channel
19 (NOT), then you would hear it, right? Gather evidence (monitoring, DFing--that is if you are smart enough to DO such a thing), provide PROOF of such
and send it to Riley Hollingsworth at rholling@fcc.gov.
But, um, you better be damn sure of your facts, bud because, not IF but WHEN it is found to be untrue it will backfire up your a so hard you'll think there's a '79 Chrysler stuck up there. The facts are: I don't TALK on this, "channel 17', or whatever the hell it is, and I don't bother truckers on 19. You got the wrong guy, feller, and it's best to just drop it, OK? I've got about as much need for a CB radio as a boar hog has for teats; I have spoken on a CB all of 10 minutes during the entire past year.

If someone is jamming you, go find him and leave me out of it.

You know.....You have a great idea. Use the low HF bands for further DXing, and you make it a contest to boot!

DXing has never been so much fun. Thanks for the suggestion. Let the contest begin!

Wrong, fudgepacker. Ask the FCC. In their view, posession implies use.
Ask them, then shut the fuck up and go back to the truckstop.

Christine, You know nothing. If you wish to say these words to me next month at Hazel Park I'll be there. Bring your fellow fudge packin' bitch Chukkeesukkee too. In the mean time don't let some trucker deep throat ya and die from the gagging. I wanna see if you got the nuts to walk up to me with your faggot ass.

To address the second part of your gay ass post, the word obfuscate is part of a normally educated individual's vocabulary. Of course a piece of shit like you would have to think it came out of a thesaurus, because for you that is the case.

I promise to use less uncommon phraseology from now on, so your walnut sized brain don't strain.

Not correct. BOTH sections have to be satisfied before any legal infraction has been committed, not just one part. In fact, it's sec 2 that might be a "sticky wicket". Sec 1 has no teeth by itself.

Yet you encouraged people to use amateur radios for their CB operations just a while back, Jerry. Those radios put out way too much power (100 watts PEP vs 12 watts PEP legal limit) and would cause even more interference if people took your advice!

Not quite. CB is the legal 40 channels. "Freeband" is the other frequencies (uppers and lowers) that people use to actually communicate. It's called the "freeband" because the CB Rules don't apply out there.

> > 1. People coming on and just TXing over your transmissions

Happens on ham radio, too; especially if you happen to be using a frequency that "belongs" to a net when it's time for them to come on.

Maybe that's why they stopped caring about complaints and whines from DouGay and Georgie-girl? Cry "wolf" too many times and nobody cares anymore! And ebay wants their percentage, after all.

No, you ask the FCC, possession alone does NOT presume use. There has to be OTHER EVIDENCE that you had operated wirh more power.
Get your facts straight, then shut the fuck up, because you don't know what your talking about.

Cranus you are an apologist for freebanding, bootlegging and illegal radio activity of all types and if your not using "hams are bad too" as a lame excuse your telling people rules dont apply on "freeband".
The American (ill)Eagle SSB club disowned you before it shit the bed and shut down no wonder your pissed at legal hams.

See there. When you are told to put up or shut up, the only thing left is to resort to the only descriptive adjectives you know. You lack the cranial capacity to either prove the things you say OR to adequately express sufficiently your frustrations at those who seem to "threaten" you.

I am NOT the individual you apparently think has been harassing drivers on channel 19, nor am I even a user of CB channel 17. Now YOU go do that unspeakable and anatomically impossible act to yourself.

Would you point out where/when/how I encouraged the use of Amateur equipment on CB? I simply don't recall having done such--particularly since I never talk on CB except very rare occasions. If you have the archival evidence, I would LOVE to see it. I am not here to argue with you, just to set it straight and will readily admit it IF I said such a thing. Please provide the exact quote where I said that.

The way I read the reg, again not to argue with you, there is nothing illegal about having questionable (?) equipment in one's possession. However, it states that if such equipment is found, it will be assumed to have been used in conjunction with your CB equipment. After all, FCC doesn't go around looking for "illegal" equipment; as long as it is not used (such as an amp), the question is moot.
How are they to know if you have such equipment? It is not illegal until you USE it. Am I wrongly reading the following section?

[1] It is in your possession or on your premises;

That, of course, is predicated on "OTHER" evidence which, I am thinking, would be the use of a CB set with an amplifier. If they have this "evidence". it would be in the form of DF, spectral analysis, or other monitoring, in which case, is the "other evidence" that, IMHO, is meant by the additional paragraphs. Someone else have a better take on this?

Right. Which seems to me to mean that when they have measured the station with outside monitoring (spectral analysis, etc) they already gotcha so to speak. They can certainly measure your power from a distance, so that when they knock on your door and find an amp, they can "assume" that you are operating with excessive power. Now if an agent came to your home without any evidence (maybe as an acquantance or friend of a friend) and saw a CB amp sitting on a shelf, then he couldn't cite you for it because there is no "other" evidence that it is being used illegally. That other evidence is usually gathered beforehand. Such an agent might (I doubt it) go back home and begin to monitor you--who knows?

Reasonable debate, not flames and filthy insults, is welcomed.

Actually, I don't have any interest in walking up to you. To be honest, I don't think I could stand the smell. Oh, and as for the faggot comments, please, don't push your personal life off on me. I don't want it. Just because you like to act that way doesn't mean the rest of the world does.

Actually, the word Obfuscate is quite obscure in modern American English, being more common just after Shakespearean times, and perhaps up into and/or just past the Victorian era. People who use it in modern english are often trying to look smarter than they really are through the use of a thesaurus. Unfortunately modern tools (such as computers) make this all too easy.

> I promise to use less uncommon phraseology from now on, so your walnut

Hrm.. last time I checked, a walnut was larger than a single neuron. Looks to me like you're admitting to the newsgroup that I'm smarter than you, which is apparently the case, as you're still a no-code. Another proof of this is the use of "phraseology". The correct term there would have been "phrasing", as "phraseology" (the science of phrases?) isn't even a word in educated circles.

Have a nice day, and try not to push your personal habits (you know, the ones you learned from your second job as a "commercial buffalo" at the Flying J and the Petro) on others in the newsgroup. The world doesn't behave like you do, and thank the Gods for that.

thats a lot of ifs jerry. doesn't it sound bizarre when one talks about 'agents' monitoring? 1984 anyone??? seperately, this whole talk of trying to dictate 11 meter usage is fine but unenforceable. listen to the nickel. does anyone really think u.s.
laws will make a difference? in the current climate where most of the planet says stuff it to the u.s. 11 meters is the least of anyones worries...

Just a hard to find 477 or 497 (VHF version of 477). I've got a single 455 here that I'd install for a few watts less. That what amps are for.

Our first radio is a Lafayette Telsat 1140. It's in a box, somewhere.
We used an RS 1/4 wave groundplane. I still have that, too.

The FCC is corrupt. They are too busy taking money and free perks from Viacom, Sony, Disney, Clear Channel Communications, Media One, and the rest of the media giants to pay any attention to the disaster known as 27 MHz CB.

6012. Mobile Antenna FM radip tap (building homebrew)

Any of you guys experimented building a "FM tap" for the mobile ?
I want to use a Fender mounted CB antenna for FM also,

A center loaded mobile antenna directly replaces the trucks AM/FM antenna + RG 58 (just add PL259 and devise a safe way of shunting the RF on transmit.
Need to make a tap perhaps: 68pf + 10K resistor to 2 detector diodes back to back + 10:1 for 50mv shunt ?

I must confess that I haven't yet found it, but you did say something to that effect. It's been a couple of months since that post.

Perhaps "encouraged" is too strong a word, even "recommended" might be. IIRC, the thread was about either "splatterbox amps" or export radios (both of which have always been illegal for use on CB, of course) and you suggested (?) that folks use converted amateur radios; perhaps with the best of intentions, figuring that ham radios have better filtering than CBs, exports, and amps do. I made a comment at the time (wondering aloud whether 100 watts PEP might not cause even more interference than 12 watts PEP), but got zero response from anybody.

I will continue searching and let you know what I find.

Can't quibble with that. The FCC generally doesn't have the manpower or the budget to send out "agents" to monitor anything but commercial broadcast stations (which is one of the reasons why amateur radio is allegedly [and ineffectively] "self policing"). But if they get complaints, they will check into things.

Throw it away and get an ICOM 718. for 450 dollars you have a radio with bulletproof finals and will throw 40 watts AM carrier, 100 watts SSB.

Wrong, faggot. As usual. And I quote from Part 95, Subpart D (CB rules):

"95.411 (c) (1)
The FCC will presume you have used a linear or other external power amplifier if-
(1) it is in your possession or on your premises; AND
(2) There is other evidence that you have operated your CB station with more power than allowed by CB Rule 20."

Note the FCC's own use of "AND" and "other evidence". Simple possession is > not < illegal.

Try reading it for yourself, if you know how to read (and comprehend).

You really should learn to open your mouth for something other than changing feet!

But then, you do. At the truckstop. Ask any driver.

CB Rules do not apply on the "freeband". CB Rules apply on channels 1 (26.965 MHz) through 40 (27.405 MHz). The so-called "freeband" is outside the legal 40. You care to show me where I'm wrong?

I'm not an apologist for anything; I see it the way it is, not the way I wish it was, which is what you do.

I was never an American Eagle. Prove otherwise. Repeated incorrect statements are still incorrect, no matter how often they're repeated.

I'm only "pissed" at two alleged legal hams: DouGay Adair N8WWM and Georgie-girl Busch WA3MOJ, who do nothing but TROLL here causing trouble.

Some hams are bad too. It's a fact. Denial doesn't alter the facts. WE8E comes to mind. So do you. Deal with it. Better yet, change it. You have the power to do so by leaving the newsgroup (never happen).

Richard,

I believe I DO remember the conversation ! (See there,
I told you I would admit it) and I think it had to do with using the Galaxys and Connex's on the regular 40. (now since I don't have the correct text, I think (?????) I was trying to say that if you use the Galaxy and other export rigs within the 40 channels you would not be likely to run afoul of FCC in light of the current emphasis on 10 Meter incursions. I don't even think the fed is even concerned with the activity within the 40 channels so long as that activity doesn't call attention to it. Usually it happens when a neighbor complains..

OH well, whatever I said, I didn't mean to encourage using ham equipment on the CB bands, etc etc. I hope you can find that thread; I'd like to read it myself to see what trouble I've got myself into! LOL!

All I was trying to do was to get a correct interpretation of the US regulations regarding spectrum management within its own territory.
Naturally, we cannot tell other nations what to do, BUT certain issues can be negotiated thru treaties.
Essentially, it is 'you scratch my back and I'll scratch your'n'. For example, some little-known country wants grain from the US and that country is jamming broadcast signals with a powerful transmitter which messes up domestic stations. Whatcha gonna do? You negotiate.

Agents monitor everyday--we just don't know it. It's been going on since the FCC was created. One of the radio services that has given them the most trouble has been 11 Meter CB. What happens on "the nickel" can't be regulated internationally by US law; common sense would tell us that. But US law DOES apply to US citizens within Conus. If our laws pertaining to radio, or anything else for that matter, are unenforceable, then we are in far more trouble than we know. What people don't realize is that radio HAS to be regulated, and people have to have some training in its use for it to be effective. All one has to do is look at 11 meters within the USA, not what happens outside, to see what a mess it is. Regulation, licensing, and enforcement should never have been done away with. Many of those who think the regulations can't, wouldn't , shouldn't apply are the ones who truly can't see the harm that can come to their OWN use of radio, and, indeed, think we should just do away with any rules and just talk anywhere we want to. Again that is because they simply don't know. That is the same atmosphere that existed in the early days before the Communications Act of 1934; i.e., it's been in that mess before.

Now back to the the rules we were discussing. The regulation we were studying was the one about whether one can be cited for having alleged illegal equipment in one's home in conjunction with a CB-particularly amplifiers. It says that (paraphrased) "if such equipment is found on one's possession or on the premises, then it will be presumed to have been used provided that OTHER evidence is found." To me, that means that the "OTHER" evidence is prior monitoring, spectral analysis, or other means of inspection) is grounds for warning, citation, or fine as the case may be.

While "to you", Jim, 11 meters is of no concern, it has caused some problems to other services. However, some operators are more and more bringing attention to themselves by not respecting the boundaries, rules, or "fences" and operating where they will. Suffice it to say that, inspite of those who scoff and say otherwise, there are initiatives being considered--some Congressional, some within FCC itself, some ARRL-sponsored, and some encouraged by individuals--to curb the abuses brought on by the "unimportant" 11 Meter issue. And some of the people complaining are those OUTSIDE the USA who are being interfered with. Eleven Meters is not important because of its own constituency that WANTS it to remain unimportant lest action be taken to place sanctions upon it.

The rules ARE enforceable within the USA and I can tell you that, thanks to the issue of 10 Meter intruders, there are things I know of even as I write this. But let's not get into a flame war and character asassinations. It is an emotional issue and only time will tell what comes about.

Any chick that looks like Jennifer Lopez and wants to suck my dick can have a copy of my tax return with the SSN blacked out. If they take it up the ass, I will also give them the first 4 digits.

But if only one woman could sit on my face and wiggle, it would have to be Jennifer Lopez.

I would lay 500 miles of wire through the desert just to hear her fart over the telephone.

I would crawl through 10 miles of her shit just to sniff her pussy farts through a screen door.

ZOLTAN say

Chairman Woods noted that Kathleen Lee was issued CPA certificate 36,525 on July 15, 1998. The hearing was to consider disciplinary action against Ms. Lee's CPA certificate pursuant to Ohio Revised Code section 4701.16(A)(5), conviction of a felony under the laws of any state or of the United States. Ms. Lee was convicted in the United States District Court, Northern District of Ohio of five counts of Aiding & Assisting in Filing False Tax Returns, a violation of 26 USC 7206(2), on June 12, 2000. Ms. Lee did not appear at the hearing. The Board agreed to deliberate the disciplinary action in a later executive session.

Action taken.

Kathleen R. Lee, CPA 4701.16(A)(5)-Convicted of aiding & assisting in filing of false tax returns. CPA certificate revoked. 2001 Apr 24

They did make a UK CB, but it was certainly far from being the best available.

For it's correct purpose - yakking away the hours on.
CB and Amateur are different services for different purposes. The failure to see that is causing Governments to try to make them more alike, gradually turning Amateur into a CB service.

If people just want to yak, they want CB... if they want to get technical, then they want Amateur. There is no reason why people should not have both (as many do), if they have a proper use for each.

Happy new year.

Probably not much. Second-hand does not fetch much, and the market is not too good right now.

Get one while they are available, although I don't expect the present stock will dry up too quick unless the market suddenly picks up.

Sure did.

I had the children going for a little while. First I let them have the small presents, with the console games coming last.
As my Son opened the first of the console games, he found a soccer game made only for the X-Box... but he only has the PS1, PS2, GBC, GBA, etc. He had no X-Box, and there were no big boxes left... so I tell him that the shop has moved the games around (as they have) and that I will sort it out for him.

They then procede to open another present, a spare controller... for anX-Box.
At that point, I pulled out a big box from it's hiding place. The look on their faces said it all, they knew what that was without opening it.
Opening the other wrapped games kept them busy while I set it up.

Happy new year.

Peter.

I did have an unlimited account, but I still read messages off-line.
I found that it really wasn't worth the cost... I was helping to fund the cost of those who were using their connection about 20 hours a day, and getting the crud service that we Brits get from companies who get your money first.
It was cheaper to go for the "Pay As You Go" connection.

I hear that Broadband has now been made available where I am, but I don't use the Internet enough to worry about it.

You may not be aware but HAMS operate on SHORTWAVE, so do CB operators. Doesn't matter HF, VHF, UHF. Still shortwave.

Well, Barnes and Noble in upper Michigan does NOT carry it any more as B Dalton does not either. I'm now in central Florida and B & N and Books a Million NO GO.
QST is not available everywhere and you might find it's not available in the Toledo area anymore.

yes that is a good idea, just take a look back at all of the licensed hams that were caught jamming on and around 11 meters in the past couple years and its easy to imagine jerry and leland both are capable of this type of thing based solely on there hatred for our competeting hobby radio service called cb.

Keep bragging like you actually know how to do anything, and you will end up inviting 5,000 trolls to the group just to test you. And they will change newsreaders more often than you change underwear (there are tens of thousands of free news servers). In fact, they will use anonymous remailers that do type II mixmaster; which cannot be traced. All you will do is expose yourself as being a usenet neophyte pissing against a wall. These folks will find your IP and e-mail, and spam you so often and ping you so much that you will hide under your bed. I am not daring you to take folks like that on, just giving you a heads up.

What is it with this group and homosexual obsession? Are heterosexual folks better CB'ers? Are heterosexual folks better trolls? Are heterosexual folks more familiar with the intricacies of Usenet?

This group has a few trolls that have chosen to harass CB'ers. A majority of their posts contain gay content. The more they are ignored, the more intense their gay posts became. Accusing them of being gay seems to bother them.

I guess you would have go back to the beginning when the AKC starting trolling the group. Their main objective if to run anyone that likes or uses a CB out of the group. You can't reason with them like normal people, because their not normal.

Do what you want with the free advice. I bet I could drum up 100 trolls in under a month to come in here and play. And I bet they could get another 100. Look, I just came to see some CB chatter, at the invite of a buddy. I gave you some pretty sound, free advice. You don't wan't any of me. I can switch remailers, munge headers and swap ISP's and news services faster than you can change shoes. And I am not even one of the good trolls. You already fucked up - you are feeding through google. These geeks nowadays can get into the news reader posting host logs and know everything about you in an hour. Once in a back door at the posting host, whois, fingers, and faces32 works. Most trolls are just little puissants like you, but god forbid you piss in the Cheerios of one of the skilled, relentless ones - well, you don't want that. BTW, you posted to the NNTP posting host at 216.166.44.158, and the reference ID's trace right back to the IP address you held at the moment you posted. Dummy. You don't even know how type-II mixmasters work, do you? Whatever - do what you want.

Hmm, well I saw it at one place last week, along with MT, CQ, and the scanner one, I can't think of the name. Leo's bookstore has them all, they used to have the British SW Magazine and Practical Wireless too, but not lately.

I haven't been to B Dalton in a long time, but Barnes and Nobles had it a couple of months ago.

I guess you will have to subscribe, it's cheaper than buying it anyway.

Except for the fact that I rarely listen to CB and have NEVER wasted my time "jamming" anybody. My interest in CB stops at 28 MHZ. If, however, I hear one of those 'drivahs' beeping and squeaking along on the interstate, then I AM interested.

I had a very interesting conversation with a "certain" gentleman at FCC
today. Hehe! VELLY, VELLY
In-ter-vesting! If he has his way, then things will begin to pop this coming year on that issue and the sale of those amplifiers that are so popular, too! Seems there was a high level meeting at FCC HQ just prior to Christmas, and the subjects of 10 Meter illegals and internet sales of CB amplifiers were the main topics. VE shall see how dese t'ings verk out! LOL! Sounds like fun to me!

Finally, as I have said before. Be it ham, CBer, pirate broadcaster, once an individual has broken the law and finds himself under the gimlet gaze of FCC agents, then he/she is fair game and deserves whatever he gets! The ham ticket is not a factor--illegal is illegal is illegal and the sooner that ticket is pulled, the better for all. He never deserved to be licensed to start with.

You are welcome to find evidence that I either have talked on CB radio within the last 2 months OR have jammed any CB, ham, or other communications period and forward it to the aforementioned address. Anytime an agent wishes to inspect my station, he is most welcomed to look at ALL my equipment where, I am proud to say, he will find not ONE piece of illegal gear.

Technically you don't "subscribe" to QST. You join the ARRL and receive the

I treat you the same way you treat others in this group. You can't post anything in this group about CB without one of you damn clowns making some gay comment.

You have earned the way people look at you and treat you. If its not you making all those posts, they are better acting like you than you are.

If he dreams about heterosex, would that make him a keyqueen?

Gladly!

Yes, I was a truck driver in the 70's for a private company that manufactured filtering equipment for the textile industry. I was laid off in 1976, decided not to return, and eventually entered the railroad industry from which I retired. It proved to be a good move for me.

WRT radio, I have been involved in radio since I was 10 years old. I was/am into several facets of radio and got my license(s) at 16. Much of that experience was in a structured environment--mostly military protocol-- and very little of that time was spend engaging in foolishness. I got my first CB radio at 18 during the years when there were callsigns, rules, and courteous operators. The environment was very different around 1966-70. When the Energy Crisis came along and CB erupted like a volcano, I was appalled at the abandonment of the previous era's orderly, controlled way of communicating and was dismayed at the "outlaw" atmosphere that took its place. Therefore,
I did not install or use CB equip-ment in my own truck(s). By 1979, I had moved away from trucks and was fully engaged in the rail industry. I also obtained my Amateur ticked in 1989 figuring that since I already had much of the equipment in another legal service, I might as well fully utilize it ! Please realize(inspite of the hopes to the contrary)I neither even picked up a CB mike, nor even listened to CB, much less "interferred" with any communications whatsoever. Nor would I ever interfere with truck drivers within the legal boundaries of CB (or outside it for that matter for fear of getting into trouble on my own). Only when I learned that truck drivers (and others) were encroaching on 10 and 12 Meters, did I raise my periscope and take a peek.

These incursions beg the question, "OK, how long will it be before 10/12 Meters are not enough and they then begin using 17 Meters?" Certainly, this is not something that would happen right away, but it could become an issue in the future.
Thus, I, along with many hams, began to watch for these drivers and turn reports of what we heard/saw. Many of them don't know that what they are doing is illegal, and all that is needed is one gentle warning from the Fed to cause them to stop. Most of them would quit it if they knew they were intruding onto the licensed ham bands. I have heard hams (when the band was open) actually talk the drivers to warn that they weren't supposed to be there only to get told to go "Fk yourself" and other filthy things. Those hams that do that are actually making it worse because they themselves would get a warning letter for using AM on a band reserved for Morse and RTTY. I NEVER answer a call from a driver; I only listen. I am not "bagging" on truckers. All they have to do is not encroach onto bands that they are not authorized. I know truckers work hard.
I know they are only trying to make a living. But they do not have to "steal" frequencies to do that. They earned a CDL, not a ham license (of course, they CAN do so and many have!).

I know people don't believe me, but much of the things I told you are coming true. FCC was, in effect, AWOL WRT CB and Amateur Radio in years past.It is not true now: witness the increasing instances of enforcement actions (truckers, freebanders, and dealers like Pacetronics, Roper Electronics, et al).

The solution is simple; just stay OFF bands and frequencies for which you have no authorization. Have respect for that has been earned by others.
Nobody is going to "bag" on anyone when they do that. I never bother a trucker. Only when he keys up on 28 MHZ does he trip my "radar". Otherwise, he won't hear from me or most of the other hams that are being interferred with by those who think they have a "rah't" to 'tawk on this h'yar 10 meter reddio". Hehe.

Don't know, nor do I care. I just wish Doug & George's constant BS would stop. Christ, it the holiday season and George post a "NO" when asked nicely to at least stop the crap during the holidays. As for Doug, well his posts speak for him clearly.....Mentally disturbed.

Nothing wrong with it, you might want

Well dana my man (or woman) I know the every mighty F.C.C. won't mess with me. I've been running power since the early 70's, and never had any problem.
Plus it's gonna be kinda hard to figure which house it is, considering that my 3 immediate neighbors all have antennas.
My original post really had nothing to do with the general population, it was about guys like Dennis, Sean, Toll-free, Painkiller, etc., etc., Hell even the Professor doesn't come out anymore to throw in his one liners.
I just hope that all the wanna-be lawyers die
the death of brain cancer or some slow debilitating disease.

Without looking at the product, I can tell you that you'd get about as much range as a walkie-talkie. Just slap a Wilson 1000 on and you're done.

Nothing less that a Wilson 1000 or a K-40 if you'll never run power.
Why cheat yourself. The 10 or 20 bucks more is worth it. Remember, channel 19 is the noisiest channel. It pegs my needle more and longer then any other channel. Daytime is worse then night. In half a mile, a legal radio is in the noise over here in the city. Once skip dies down for the evening, more distance is possible.

Just my point. I don't want to belong to ARRL just as I don't care to belong to AARP, NRA, AAA, Skinheads, etc. I just want to read their magazine when it has something that interests me. I wouldn't buy it every month as most of the time it has useless drivel about some clowntest or whether someone died or some such crap. ARRL and QST have a short time left as the active Ham population lessens. If they took a real survey as to how many real active ham there are they would find the number far less than they think. I'm not talking about members, I'm talking about HAMS that really use a radio to transmit a signal. Doesnt matter what band. How many transmit a signal at least once a week? Most don't.
Look at your local HAM clubs, talk to the members(if you can wake them up). Most show up and act disgusted with the club, Ham radio, life in general. New folks are never there. Ya I know about your Skywarn in Flint, MI. Great service! Could be run on CB, NEXTEL, GMRS.

Well then you can't expect the magazine to be sold at outlets when you only buy it once in a while. They've got to recoup the costs of printing and distributing and the "once in a while" buyer just doesn't provide that.

Can you "just buy" the magazines of AARP, NRA, AAA, etc.
without joining? I am always amazed at people that want the "benefits" of an organization's efforts, in this case the publication, but don't want to support the organization by joining. I see the same thing at times in the antique car hobby. People that bitch about the club rules at a car show, or otherwise want technical help from club officials but won't part with the few bucks it takes to join.

Most news servers strip the NNTP info, I don't use it because it does.
In my opinion its the best news server. For the price it has the best retention of binaries newsgroups.
I could add my address to the header if that would help. Having your IP being shown means nothing anyway.
So I'll quit accusing you of being the other AKC assholes of the group.
If your not George, what name do you go by? Other than Willi, or Neal?

Happy New Year, whoever you are.

If that HAM is active on CB, does that count? It's a radio signal.

Check the figures yourself then check how many are really active. Yes you can but NRA and AARP rags on the stand. AAA no. I quoted no data, I made an observation. Get you head out the sand and look around. See all of your old buddies just hanging around the club meeting doing nothing? is field day as well attended as it was in the 60's? Are new folks welcomed? Is help provided?
If so then consider yourself lucky.

I'm trying to rewire a four wired sure 404b mic to plug into a little rca jack. The Sure has white and green sheilded wires and unshielded red and black wires. The RCA has, of course, two wires.

Any suggestions?

thanks,

They show up though.

The green and white are the mic connections. They are shorted until

To learn the technical TRUTH about CB Radio without all the hype from people who are just plain ignorant, check out the following books from CBC International. They're selling right now at a big discounts on our EBAY & AMAZON stores too.

Check it out!

To see exactly what these books look like, plus all the specific, chapter-by-chapter details, see our Web at:

www.cbcintl.com

BOOK #1: THE "SCREWDRIVER EXPERT'S" GUIDE To Peaking Out & Repairing CB Radios. List $25. The most popular "big dummy's" guide ever published on do-it-yourself CB repairs & modifications. Covers peaking of receivers, transmitters, modulation, mike problems, antenna & SWR problems, detailed frequency modifications for both crystal & PLL radios. Loaded with charts, illustrations, and specific instructions for most brands including the new export models. This latest edition also covers slider and broadbanding tricks, FM conversions, and much more!

BOOK #2: THE CB PLL DATA BOOK. List $20. The only complete reference source on CB PLL synthesizer circuits ever published! Detailed PLL theory explained in layman's terms. How they work, and how to modify them for many more channels. Includes specific PLL block mixing diagrams, truth charts, & IC pin function diagrams for nearly every PLL chip ever used. Covers all the most popular U.S. & export chassis, with specific listings of all models using the chip.

BOOK #3: UNDERSTANDING & REPAIRING CB RADIOS. List $42. Giant 370-page technical book for the professional repairman. Picks up where the "SCREWDRIVER EXPERT'S" GUIDE leaves off. Includes circuit descriptions & troubleshooting guide for 23- & 40-Ch., crystal & PLL, solid-state & tube, AM, FM, SSB, CW, American & export models. Covers test equipment (& where to find it), transistor basics, synthesizers, receivers, transmitters, power supplies, T/R switching, antennas, interference, parts & accessory sources. Over 350 illustrations including schematics, charts, and photos. Huge subject index also lets you look up repairs by symptoms. This is "must" reading for any serious CB technician!

FREE!!

For advanced techs and serious radio hobbyists, we're now offering a FREE copy of our previously published "CB EPROM DATA BOOK" by Martin Pickering. (EPROM = Erasable Programmable Read Only Memory.) We sold it for many years but it's now out of print. This little manual of 60 illustrated pages is an absolute GEM of CB technical knowledge you'll just never find anywhere else. And it's yours for FREE from our Web site.

This book reveals the secrets of advanced channel programming, and picks up where our "CB PLL DATA BOOK" (www.cbcintl.com/pllbook.htm) leaves off. You'll get a thorough background in how these amazing programmable chips can be used to modify many popular CB PLL circuits for expanded frequency coverage. Covers the basic programming techniques, and even includes real PC board artwork for making EPROM circuits. Sample artwork includes EPROM boards for the popular MB8719, PLL02A, ï¿½PD2824, and ï¿½PD858 PLL circuits.

www.cbcintl.com/docs/EpromBook.htm

We've now added all our crystal charts for free download/printing (PDF) on our site. These 36 charts cover about 95% of all American mobile & base CB models, and show exactly which crystal(s) affects which mode or channel. Very useful for troubleshooting "dead channels" symptom, or for modification to 10M or other freqs.

Check 'em out at: www.cbcintl.com/xtals/xtals.htm

We specialize in CB books, plans, kits, and high-performance CB accessories. Please visit our Web site to see all those "goodies" you just can't find anywhere else!

Keyqueenz cried and whined most about gay stuff in the NG so for 2004 there is a lot more on its way. You limp wristed fairies get all worked up about being told about your gayness well first of all i wasn't talking to you but to that one of the akc's which presently we are having a war with...i really don't know what your problem is but i really don't care...you are a johnny come lately to all of this anyways....if you are professional troll(whatever that is) ....fine i could care less..also i could care less that you know what my ip is....so what??? you can call me names all day long, it makes no difference....we are not face to face so you are talking to the wind......and also i really do not see what your point is .....why hide behind a remailer.....i am merely trying to help run off the white trash hams that have called this place home for whatever reason for the last four or so years....and perhaps we shall be successful this year, who knows......you sir, can be part of the problem or part of the solution ....the choice is yours to make...but do me a real big favor if you will.....do not play computer geek with me......i am not in the mood right now...it has been a long year of fussing and fighting with akc trash.....why spoil that situation by trying to bring up some legitimate usenet subject material....4-10 driver???

well jim after over four years of constant pornographic spamming , threats, insults, ratting , etc, etc......the only way to fight this infestation of rifraff is to get down and get dirty which i guess is the only thing they understand...and some things have already started happening if you have been reading the mail around here.......and so i shall fight for the right to party...... for a while......we shall see....however it is a new year coming and frankly i am tired of their infantile bullshit.....and perhaps it is time for me to move on....and i hate to admit it but i might have to go ahead and upgrade my fcc license.......i was talking to my amigos over at the world's oldest hamster club and they told me , that i was a idiot for putting up with this stuff......they are nice people too and i really appreciated the tour of the 50k watt blowtorch......eye opening experience i might add.....and of course it provided me with much needed building ideas for my final march to conquer channel 6 and declare it a black free zone,....hello come in.......

You don't think good trolls know all the major free news servers, or all of the anonymous remailers that do type II mixmaster such as Xganon.com or riot.eu.org?
